released from captivity of more than a year.
The Filipinos, having met reinforcements and thinking that the Americans had evacuated the town, descended from the hills today, intending to recapture Calamba. Gen. Hall easily drove them back. Gen. Hall will leave a garrison at Calamba.
Lieut. Larson, commanding the Napidan, today found a long missing Spanish gunboat which had been so covered with bushes and nets so as not to resemble a vessel.
AMERICANS FARTHEST SOUTH.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, July 27.—Calamba is a town on Laguna de Bay, about thirty miles southeast of Manila. It is much farther south than the United States troops have yet penetrated on land. It is in the province of Laguna. It has a population of 11,476, and is twenty-seven miles from Santa Cruz on the eastern shore of the bay. Its capture is not considered of any strategic importance, except as a part of the plan to harass and worry the insurgents.
IN THE OTHER ISLANDS.
Sultan of Sulu Friendly—A Fight on Balabac.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
NEW YORK, July 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The World's cablegram from Sandayan, Philippine Islands, July 24, via Labuan, July 26, says: "Bates reached Sulu July 16, to arrange a treaty with the Sultan at a conference to begin today. The Sultan is to go to Sulu from the island of Malibu. The people of that island display great friendliness toward the Americans, and it is believed that a satisfactory treaty will soon be completed. If so, future hostilities between natives and Americans in the Sulu archipelago will be prevented. The same will be true of the island of Mindanao, which is tributary to the Sultan. The only features likely to be troublesome are slavery and plurality of wives, which points, it is believed, the natives will insist upon. The Sultan of Sulu has issued the following proclamation to the people: "I have met the Americans. They have come among us as friends, not to interfere with our religion, rights or government. All those who love their country or Sultan, I warn to be friendly and not molest them. The Americans are like a box of matches—you strike one or two and they all blow up."
"The Moros of Zamboanga are anxious to have the Americans take possession of that port. They have imprisoned the Tagalo leaders representing Aguinaldo there. A gunboat went from Manila to Balabac, a small island thirty miles from Palawan, to re-establish a lighthouse. The commander found the light stolen, whereupon he steamed to Kubat, on Borneo, found trace of it, and finally got the missing light. He returned to Balabac and got it up, leaving the friendly natives in charge, and the United States flag floating over the place."
Going back after a short cruise he found the flag gone and a Filipino flag floating. He decided to land a force to remove the rebel flag, but the Filipinos resisted. At length two officers and thirteen marines were landed, after a long, hard, stubborn fight, in which a native chief, first officer and six natives were killed, and several were wounded. No American was even wounded."

GEN. OTIS NOT TO BE TAKEN FROM HIS POST.
Yellow Journals' Repeated Assertions that the Commanding Officer in the Philippines is to Be Shorn of His Authority are Settled for Good and All.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
WASHINGTON, July 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There being a remarkable scarcity of news in Washington just now, sundry journals have decided to demand that arms and ammunition be sent from the Philippines to the Philippines. The Times correspondent can state regarding this oft-repeated lie that Gen. Otis will not be removed, superseded, or his authority diminished, except upon his own request, which request has not been received, and is not expected in Washington. These blunt and unqualified assertions come as directly from the President as it is possible for information for publication to come.

NAVAL OFFICER'S TRIBUTE.
Flag Lieut. Eberley Tells What Has Been Done at Manila.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, July 27.—Lieut. Eberley, flag lieutenant of the Oregon, under Capt. Barker, has just arrived in Washington from the Philippines, and brings some interesting details of the situation in Manila.
Lieut. Eberley says that the social and sanitary conditions in Manila are better than is generally believed in the United States, and that there would be supposed after such a short American administration. The city has been cleaned on the American plan. The streets have been cleared of ancient accumulations of filth, and there has been a house-to-house inspection, which is still continuing. Lieut. Eberley says that the health of Manila is exceptionally good, and that even among the troops on shore there was little sickness from anything but heat prostration.
The soldiers in and around Manila are now well-housed in permanent quarters or Nip huts, which are built on a bamboo frame and are cool and dry. Even on the works the soldiers had comfortable palm houses before the rains set in, and except for the intense heat they were comfortable. The rains had not started in earnest when Capt. Barker and Lieut. Eberley sailed for home. It was well understood that the rains would cut off all transportation except by rail-road, and that is given as a reason for Gen. Lawton abandoning San Isidro, there being a big swamp between it and the railway that is impassable during the rainy season.
The only animal available for transport today Gen. Hall brought to Manila the Spaniards whom the expedition had

The Assassin's Father Put to Death by the President Years Ago. Body of Heurax Taken to Santiago de los Caballeros.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PORT DE FRANCE, July 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of President Heurax has been taken to Santiago de los Caballeros. The President's widow has requested that the remains be transported by railway to Porto Plata, and from there to Santo Domingo by sea, but the Governor of Santiago fears disorder if the body should be removed from there by train.
The Governor of Santiago confirms the general opinion that the assassination of President Heurax was a political crime. It is reported that the assassin's party is gathering forces preparatory to an attack on the government troops.
It has been learned that Caceres's companions, when President Heurax was killed, were Juan Pichardie and Horacio Vasquez. The latter is the brother of a Deputy in Parliament.
HEURAX'S LAST ACTS.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
PORT DE FRANCE, July 27.—A financial crisis having arisen in Santo Domingo and an insurrection being feared owing to the number of malcontents, President Heurax went to the north and west of the island to prepare for all eventualities. He was about to leave Moca for Santiago de los Caballeros when he was killed. Booted and spurred, ready to mount his horse, he sat under the gallery of a house in the Rue Colon, talking with two friends, at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, when an old man approached to ask for alms. Just as the President gave the old man some money, Caceres, the assassin, rushed forward quickly and fired twice from his revolver. One bullet struck the heart of the President, killing him instantly, and the other killed the old man by his side.
The crime was committed so quickly that the friends of the President were not able to interfere in time to prevent it, but the fired several shots at Caceres, who ran away, accompanied by several persons. The assassin's party returned the fire of the President's friends and the assassin escaped. It was not known whether he was wounded or not. The authorities immediately sent troops to pursue him.
The body of President Heurax was taken to the house of the Governor of Moca. The news of the President's death spread rapidly and caused much commotion among the inhabitants of the island. It is believed by many that the murder was the result of a political conspiracy.
Vice-President Figueroa has taken precautions to prevent disorder and has taken command of the troops to that end, but up to the present all is quiet.

ATLANTA (Ga.), July 27.—The constitution has received a special from its Covington, Ga., correspondent, which says that a mob of fifty masked men made away with three Mormon elders who have been preaching in James county.
The story is to the effect that three elders visited the home of William Cunnard, near Newton Factory, Jasper county, yesterday, and endeavored to persuade Mrs. Cunnard to join the church. While they were at the Cunnard house, fifty masked men came up and asked the elders to accompany them. The latter refused to do so, and while they were refusing, Cunnard procured a rifle, and aided the mob in taking the elders. Several shots were exchanged. In the excitement Mrs. Cunnard had her jaw shattered. The mob finally secured the elders, and rode off with them. Nothing has been seen of them since. The Mormons were driven out of two towns in Jasper county, early in the week.

PLATTSBURG (N. Y.), July 27.—President and Mrs. McKinley spent their first day in the Adirondacks very quietly. After their arrival this morning, the President took a long walk through the park surrounding the hotel. He was alone. In the afternoon he took another long walk. He keenly enjoyed the bracing air of the Adirondacks, and seems to be much relieved to get away from the cares and worries of Washington. Mrs. McKinley remained in her apartments all day, resting and enjoying the beautiful view of lake and mountain scenery. This afternoon the President received official notice of the death of President Heurax of the republic of Santo Domingo. He immediately dictated and sent a dispatch of condolence. Postmaster-General Smith and wife, who intended to accompany the Presidential party here, are expected to arrive in a few days, probably Monday. Atty.-Gen. Griggs and family have engaged one of the best hotels connected with the hotel, and will arrive here August 15, for a stay of several weeks.

CARM (Ill.), July 27.—Walter S. Worthen, his wife, son and married daughter and a neighbor, Barry Carter, were poisoned Tuesday noon. Mrs. Worthen was taken ill during dinner, and the others immediately afterward. Physicians, who were summoned, found their patients lying upon the floor of the room, in every conceivable position. They found evidences of arsenical poison, and worked all night. Wednesday Floyd Worthen, a lad of 14 years, died.
Sheriff Ackerman today summoned Worthen's daughter, Mrs. Ivy Crabtree, and elicited from her a confession that she had put rough on rats in the coffee and cabbage at dinner. She seemed sorry over the death of her brother, saying she did not mean to harm him, but showed no feeling, but anger in speaking of her father and step-mother.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
MINNEAPOLIS (Minn.), July 27.—A special to the Times from Butte, Mont., says that a mining company, under the name of the Smokehouse Copper Mining Company, has been organized there for the purpose of tunneling under the entire city for copper. The organization of the company was brought about through a settlement of litigation which has been going on for many years and involving the Smokehouse, Destroying Angel and Copper Bottom Mining claims, which cover the principal parts of the city. The importance of the new company is regarded as second only to that of the Amalgamated Copper Company.

GUILTY OF MURDER.

PAUL CORCORAN SENTENCED AT WALLACE, IDAHO.

Defendant Must Serve Seventeen Years in Prison for Participating in a Riot of Strikers.

Trial and Punishment, the Outgrowth of the Blowing-up of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Concentrator.

Cleveland Trouble Continues, and Messenger Boys Strike at Philadelphia-Brickmakers Go Out at Chicago.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WALLACE (Idaho), July 27.—Paul Corcoran was this morning found guilty of murder in the second degree by a jury in the District Court for the killing of James Cheyne at Wardner April 29, during the riots, when a mob of 1000 miners blew up the Bunker Hill and Sullivan concentrator. Judge Stewart this evening sentenced Corcoran to serve seventeen years in the penitentiary.

Corcoran was considered a test case, and had he been acquitted, it is probable that any of the other 200 men who are under arrest, would have been tried for participation in the riots and murders at Wardner. This afternoon, however, Judge Stewart set the trials of Graddock and Inman, on the charge of murdering Schmidt and Cheyne, for September 4.

The trial of Corcoran consumed about one month, and attracted wide attention in the United States, and especially among laborers. The jury men were from a distant portion of the county and were men of good character. Hundreds of witnesses were examined, and both the State and defense were represented by able counsel.

The jury retired about 10 o'clock last night, after listening to the charge of Judge Stewart, and at 4 o'clock this morning a verdict of murder in the second degree was agreed upon. Within twenty minutes after the jury retired last night, eleven of them favored the verdict finally rendered, but one man held out six hours for murder in the first degree. Under the Idaho laws murder in the second degree is punishable by imprisonment for ten years to life. Many prominent members of the miners' union here expressed great surprise today at the verdict, and stated that they confidently expected a hung jury. Although the union men consider the sentence of seventeen years severe, no move has yet been made by Corcoran's attorneys for a new trial, and it is stated that none will be made.

OTHER TRIALS SET.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WALLACE (Idaho), July 27.—George Craddock and Joseph Inman, indicted jointly with Corcoran for the murder of John Schmidt and James Cheyne were taken to court today, and their trials set for September 4, when the regular fall term of court will begin.

The Congressional Industrial Commission spent considerable time today with Manager Burbridge of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan concentrator, securing from him the anti-union opinion in the Coeur d'Alene district. The commission, arrived yesterday, and will remain during the session of the commission.

The crime for which Paul Corcoran was today found guilty and sentenced to seventeen years in the penitentiary was committed at Wardner, April 29 last, when a mob of miners captured a Northern Pacific train here and rode to Wardner and blew up the Bunker Hill and Sullivan concentrator with dynamite. During the riot hundreds of shots were fired, and two men, Smith and Cheyne, were killed. The trouble was of long standing, and grew out of the refusal of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Company to recognize the Miners' Union.

The Miners' Union demanded that all non-union men be discharged by the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Company. The union men be employed. The company declined to accede to the demand, and the result was that their concentrator at Wardner, valued at $250,000, was blown up with dynamite. About 300 miners are now under arrest charged with riot, conspiracy, murder, stopping a mail train and other offenses. The trials will not begin until the next term of court in September.

AGAINST LAWLESSNESS.

Mayor of Cleveland Will not Tolerate Any Interference.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CLEVELAND, July 27.—Mayor Farley purposes to conduct the campaign against lawlessness in Cleveland on the lines he has laid down, and he will not tolerate any interference. That was made clear at the special meeting of the City Council this evening, when the attempt to institute an investigation of the strike on the Big Consolidated street-railway lines by a special committee of the Council was defeated.

When the previous strike was settled a month ago an agreement between the company and the strikers was brought about by a special committee of the Council. The agreement provided that the taking back of a certain percentage of the old men, for the retention of a certain number of new men and for the loyal treatment of the company and the new men by the old men were taken back.

When the present strike was inaugurated, Mayor Farley charged that the agreement had been violated by the company and, on the other hand, the company charged that the men had not been loyal to the non-unionists. It was the purpose of the special committee of the Council tonight to authorize that committee to institute a semi-judicial investigation of the present strike, by subpoenaing witnesses and sending for books and papers to ascertain whether the agreement had been lived up to and to inform the public where the blame for the strike lay.

Mayor Farley opposed the proposed action in a vigorous speech, in which he declared that the committee of the special committee would interfere with the plans of the executive for the crushing out of disorder. He said the only result would be to keep the city in agitation and that no good purpose would be served.

"In time of peace," he said, "prepare for war, but when you have war, the best thing to do is to bring about peace, but that cannot be done by keeping up the agitation which caused the war. This seems to be a good time for everybody to mind his own business."

Several of the Councilmen favored the appointment of a committee, but when the resolution came to a vote it was lost. Many of the Council sympathizers have been very bitter toward Mayor Farley, but they have been charged him with responsibility for the present troubles.

and threats against his life have been made. This led him to prepare a guard for his residence at Euclid avenue, and detectives watch the house every night.

The presence of the troops has had a demoralizing effect upon the rioters and up to 10 o'clock tonight there had not been a single outbreak of violence. The cars were operated on their regular routes, and in some parts of the city they ran almost empty. The boycott of the lines by the working people being almost universal. President Everett says, however, that he does not believe the boycott is effective. He thinks people are deterred from rioting from fear of personal injury and he says that as soon as the safety of passengers is assured, the car will be filled as usual. The boycott is refusing to sell them any supplies and representatives of organized labor have refused to patronize any business which takes their money for anything or supplies any of their wants.

The Mayors of the suburban villages had a meeting today at which the presence of troops in Collinwood and South Brooklyn were discussed. The Mayors of both these hamlets said nothing small for the Mayor of South Brooklyn said he did not particularly object to the presence of the soldiers, but said the whole trouble was caused by the non-union men who are rioting. The Mayor of Collinwood said he would like to see the Mayor of South Brooklyn to preserve order there.

There was grave apprehension of trouble tonight. It had been announced that there would be a meeting of strike sympathizers at 8 o'clock, and the police had been instructed to prevent it. It appears, however, that the announcement was unauthorized, for while a small crowd gathered, there was no attempt to hold a meeting, and consequently no trouble occurred.

The coroner's inquest in the killing of Henry Schmidt, last Monday night, was held at the residence of the late non-union conductor of the name of Ralph Hawley, had been in progress for two days. All the witnesses who testified on the charge of murdering Schmidt and Cheyne, for September 4.

The trial of Corcoran consumed about one month, and attracted wide attention in the United States, and especially among laborers. Department of Justice Building Plans are Considered.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Of the ten designs submitted by the leading architects of the country for a new Department of Justice building, three have been selected for further examination, and the remaining seven have been rejected. The successful architects so far are George B. Post, Warren & Wetmore and Prince & Aiken, all of New York.

These designs will be elaborated and, when completed, the Attorney-General will select one which he regards as the most meritorious. The building will be of white marble and will cost $1,000,000.

GEN. DE GALIFFE THE AUTHOR OF THE DEGRADATIONS.

French Minister of War Officially Announces His Responsibility for the Punishment of Generals Pellieux and De Negrier—Capt. Dreyfus is Better.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

PARIS, July 27.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In view of the excitement caused by the degradation of Gens. Pellieux and De Negrier, and the rumored resignations of other generals, the Minister of War, Gen. de Galiffé, has thought it advisable to issue a communication assuming full responsibility for the recent orders. Gen. de Galiffé says there is absolutely no ground for the assertion that the disciplinary measures adopted since the formation of the new cabinet are due to the advice or demands of the cabinet. It is he who personally investigated and determined the course to pursue, and then submitted his intention to the cabinet, which approved his actions. Gen. de Galiffé's communication concludes: "The Minister of War has taken and proposes to retain in the responsibilities according to these laws, a leading part, as behooves his position."

SENATORIAL REPORT.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

PARIS, July 27.—Gens. Jamont and Hervé, members of the Supreme Council of War, were reported today to have resigned out of sympathy for the late Negrier, who was removed from the Supreme Council of War Wednesday. This report created a great deal of excitement, as it would have been almost revolutionary for such officers as they to pursue the course indicated.

The Prime Minister, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, ordered that strenuous efforts be made to unearth the fabricator of the story.

FLOOD OF SYMPATHY.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, July 28.—The Daily Chronicle's Paris correspondent says: "Though no military movement has followed Gen. de Negrier's disgrace, I am bound to say that, although he has not received open protest from other generals, he is overwhelmed with marks of sympathy from every part of France. He was evidently one of the prospective 'saviors' of France, and he made no secret of his disappointment when M. Déroutelle's attempt failed, and blamed Gen. Rouget for not taking up the cause. His popularity in the army is undoubted."

DREYFUS' RECOVERERS.

RENNES, July 27.—The illness of Capt. Dreyfus was but slight, and he has recovered. His friends say that his mental and bodily condition is excellent.

ARRESTED FOR ABDUCTION.

American Woman Taken into Custody at Liverpool, England.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

LIVERPOOL, July 27.—[By Atlantic Cable.] On the arrival of the Dominion Line steamer Cambrian at this port this afternoon, Sergt. Collins of Scotland Yard and Mr. Will of Liverpool, arrested Mrs. Pierot, a daughter of Baltimore on the charge of abduction of her daughter from Baltimore. Mrs. Pierot was accompanied by a tall, military-looking man, and the party had taken passage as Mr. and Mrs. Pierce and daughter.

"Pierot," Capt. Blood, a brother of Candy Collins, said, "Mrs. Pierot did not deny her identity. She had not anticipated arrest, and was surprised. She took it quietly, but there was a painful scene between mother and daughter when they began to fear separation, the child weeping bitterly. The police reassured the mother for the present."

The child and mother were taken to the police office, but proceeded to Euston station by a later train. Mrs. Pierot was arraigned at the Bow-street Police Court this afternoon, and remanded for one week. The child will remain in custody of the police. Mrs. Pierot, her child and blood arrived at the Euston station they were greeted by an inspector and the correspondent of the Associated Press. To the latter he said: "This is a pure case of persecution. I assure you. Some of the proceedings are utterly unwarrantable. If taking my child away is an indictable offense, then I am guilty, perhaps legally, but every mother's heart will be with me in this trouble." Patrick Innes, who appeared for the defense, said to the correspondent of the Associated Press, after the hearing: "There is not the slightest cause of extradition in this case. The English law says abduction must be against the laws of England and the United States. Mrs. Pierot violated the American law only."

Mrs. Pierot and her child have gone to Fulham, where they will be the guests of Lady Collin Campbell.

BONDS IN DEMAND.

Mexico Pleaded Because Americans are Purchasing the Issue.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

CITY OF MEXICO, July 27.—The announcement is made here that the Equitable Life Insurance Company of New York has subscribed for $2,000,000 of Mexico's new 5 per cent bond issue, and it has taken a most favorable impression in financial circles, for it is seen that a new era in the relations of American investors and capitalists to Mexico has dawned. European interests here naturally do not look with favor on this favorable attitude of American investors toward Mexico, and all organs of reaction and those controlled by European interests are much annoyed.

The City of Mexico is practically being rebuilt, and building permits have been granted in number in excess of any previous period in its municipal history.

PHOENIX RECRUITS.

Fifty-two Men Started Last Night for Fort Logan.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.), July 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The prize recruiting record is believed to be held by First Lieut. Max Luna of the Thirty-fourth Regiment, who has in two days in Phoenix enlisted fifty-two recruits for his regiment. The men were taken tonight for Fort Logan, Colo., and were given a royal send-off by the townspeople.

OBJECTS TO ADVERTISING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. Roosevelt today notified the members of the Dewey Reception Committee that he did not care to have the Rough Riders take part in the monster land parade which is planned in connection with the homecoming of the great naval leader. His letter was not made public, but it is stated that he gave as his reason for his opposition his disinclination to have his old command used for advertising purposes. Just who the Governor fears will be advertised is not known, but his friends say that he is against the efforts which Tammany is making to control and syndicate all the glory that there is to be in the Dewey reception.

THIRTY-FIFTH'S OFFICERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

VANCOUVER (Wash.), July 27.—Between twenty and twenty-five of the officers assigned to the Thirty-fifth United States Infantry, being recruited at Vancouver Barracks, have arrived. The latest arrivals are Maj. Robert D. Walsh, War G. Short and Albert Laws and Maj. Julius A. Schaulchke, surgeon. Recruits for the new regiment continue to arrive at the rate of fifty or sixty a day.

Maj. Wilson, Chief Commissary of the Department of Columbia, has been ordered to Seattle on duty connected with inspection and shipment of stores purchased for Copper River exploring expeditions.

HELPED FROM JAPAN.

Insurgents Now in a Position to Make Power.

MANILA, July 27, 7:45 p.m.—[By Manila Cable.] It is reported in Filipino circles in Manila that the insurgents recently received consignments of salt-peter and lead from Japan. The insurgents had been experiencing many difficulties in the manufacture of good powder, that which they produced lacked the power to penetrate armor plate. The two friars who were recently arrested here on suspicion that they were the bearers of messages to Aguinaldo from the Filipino Junta at Hongkong, have been liberated for want of evidence upon which to prosecute them.

As soon as authorization can be received from Madrid to incur the necessary expenditures, the Spanish general, Ramonillo, will send a commission composed of Señors Toral and Rialta to carry food, money, medicine and clothes to the Spanish prisoners there. The commission will also reopen negotiations for the release of the captured. It is reported that $3,000,000 in Mexican money will be offered to the insurgents for the release of the Spaniards. Gen. Ramonillo declines to confirm this report.

Officers of Dewey's Flagship Attend a Funeral at Trieste.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

TRIESTE, July 27.—Capt. Lambertson and the other officers of the United States cruiser Olympia today attended the funeral of the sailors who were killed recently by an explosion on board the Austrian torpedo boat Adler.

This afternoon Admiral Dewey drove through the suburbs of the city. It is now expected that the Olympia will arrive in New York by September 30.

DEATH OF A TRAITOR.

CORP. HAYES KILLED WHILE FIGHTING FOR THE ENEMY.

Tragic Scene Accompanies His Execution, When an American Commander Held His Body Aloft on a Bayonet While Others Shoot at Him.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

KANSAS CITY, July 27.—The Star today says that a tragic scene which attended the death of Corp. Leonard Hayes, America's only traitor in the Philippines, was witnessed by Sergt. George A. Lamarch of Co. H, Twentieth Kansas Volunteers, now in this city. Sergt. Lamarch went to the Philippines with the Second Oregon Regiment fourteen months ago. Corp. Hayes, he says, became enamored of a Filipino beauty and deserting his comrades, was placed in charge of a Filipino battery with the rank of lieutenant. He met his death almost in the first engagement in which he fought against his country. Speaking of this battle, Sergt. Lamarch said:

"We had charged the Filipinos, driving them back and killing and wounding many. Among the wounded left on the field we found Hayes. He was recognized by several of the boys. One of the soldiers of the Second Oregon drove his bayonet through the body of the wounded traitor and lifted him up above his head, and held him there while the soldiers shot him. The body was thrown into a trench and buried with several Filipinos. We would have killed him worse if we had known him."

GREAT ARITHMETICIAN.

BRYAN WANTS NO SUBTRACTION, BUT FAVORS ADDITION.

He Tells His Hoosier Hearers That Denunciation of the Philippines Policy of the Administration Should Be Tacked Onto the Democratic Platform.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

GREENFIELD (Ind.), July 27.—Col. William J. Bryan held three meetings here today, two at the Fair Grounds and one on the Courthouse square in the evening. Fifty thousand visitors were in town, and 12,000 people heard him on the Fair Grounds at each of the two meetings.

In his speeches Bryan insisted upon nothing being subtracted from the Democratic platform of 1896, but that it should be added denunciation of the Philippines policy of the administration, which gave arms to the insurgents to help them free themselves from the yoke of Spain and then shoot them down for daring to assert their independence against the republic of the United States, the land of the free.

He said he had heard the McKinley policy depended on the grounds of religious duty, financial profit and political duty. He warned all religious thinkers that a war for conquest for religious reasons was a dangerous road to humanity with a Gatling gun would do little good, as the man receiving the load would be little better fitted, and the man who was shot at and missed would be kept busy picking up and carrying for the dead.

RUSSIA AND JAPAN AGREED AS TO KOREA.

Mikado Brings About an Era of Good Feeling With China—The Kinshu-Maru Brings Over Interesting News.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The reports that Japan and Russia are armistice for a struggle over Korea are received with much allowance in the diplomatic quarters chiefly concerned. It is pointed out that an entente cordiale was agreed between the two countries last year concerning affairs in Korea. This arrangement is still in force, and there has been no evidence that either government desired to depart from it. It is in the form of a protocol, dated at Tokyo April 23, 1898, and is signed by Baron Rosen, Russian Minister to Japan, and Baron Nishi, plenipotentiary for Japan. Its main provisions are:

"The imperial governments of Russia and Japan recognize definitely the sovereignty and independence of Korea and mutually agree between themselves to abstain from interference in the internal affairs of the country. Desiring to avoid all possible cause for misunderstanding, the governments of Russia and Japan mutually engage that in case Korea should be attacked by a third power, neither of them will previously reaching a mutual accord on the subject.

"In view of the development attending the commerce and industry of Japan in Korea and the considerable number of Japanese residing in Korea, the government of Russia will not interfere in the development of the commerce and industry between Japan and Korea."

This protocol is said to have brought about a satisfactory condition of affairs in Korea. It is recognized in diplomatic quarters on both sides that each government has a deep interest in the country, and that neither is likely to submit to any move contrary to the above protocol which may bring in question the sovereignty of Korea.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

Era of Good Feeling Established by the Mikado.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.—In the diplomatic quarters concerning the affairs of China and Japan, it is said that the old ill-feeling between the two countries, dating long before the war, and made more acute by that struggle, recently has been obliterated and several graceful and significant courtesies exchanged between the Emperor of China and the Emperor of Japan. The latter was the first to extend the olive branch by conferring on the Emperor of China the decoration of the highest order in Japan. This was conveyed to Peking with great ceremony, and recently the Emperor of China has returned the compliment by decorating the Emperor of Japan with the highest order of China.

A similar spirit was shown on the death of the Field Marshal of the Japanese army a short time ago. Although he had been active in the war with China, from the strongest tributes paid him at the time of his death came from officials high in the Chinese service. Another recent mark of restored good feeling is the sending of many Chinese students to Japan for modern education. These number about one hundred, and include the son of Viceroy Chang of Hunan, the rival of Li Hung Chang.

This era of good feeling in the Orient was referred to at the legation here in connection with reports from Peking as to the visit of the Japanese admiral and squadron and the probable consummation of a Japanese-Chinese treaty. While the officials here have no direct information, the general impression is that the treaty will be a defensive alliance between China and Japan. This alliance seemed to have been at one time, but it is said that Japan no longer considers it opportune, and it would not be concluded in the present aspect of international affairs.

FROM THE OTHER SIDE.

Kinshu-Maru Brings a Budget of Interesting News.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

VICTORIA (B. C.), July 27.—The steamship Kinshu-Maru arrived today after a record-breaking trip from China. She had a few white passengers, among them being Dr. Eastlake of New York, who is introducing the electric trolley system into Japan. The officers of the ship report that the plague has been almost stamped out, so far as ships are concerned.

Elaborate arrangements were being made by Japan for the celebration of the revised treaties coming into force July 17. This will not apply to France, Austria and Italy, with whom the treaties do not apply until August 4. United States Minister Buck has issued a proclamation calling on all United States citizens to loyally observe the new arrangement, and Dr. Eastlake says the general impression is that foreigners will be more leniently treated than the natives.

A terrible hurricane swept the Japanese coast from the 8th to 10th July. In Ushijima, Oyate district, Fukushima prefecture, seventy houses were washed away, fifty persons were killed and thirty were missing. In Baito-Mura, Itano district, the same prefecture, over forty houses were demolished and many people are missing. At Aiga-Mura, Kamaoka district, Miyagi prefecture, a landslide occurred on the night of July 10, owing to the heavy rain. Five houses were crushed under the debris and twenty-eight persons were either killed or injured. Railway traffic east of Yanagil, on the Sanyo Railway, is still interrupted in consequence of the damage done to the track.

When the Kinshu-Maru left Yokohama the United States cruiser Boston had arrived from Manila on her way to San Francisco; and the transport Hancock, she had 900 Nebraska men aboard. The transport Relief left the same day as the Rio, July 13, for America, with a sick aboard from Manila, mostly Kansas men. Of those Capt. Bradley of the Kansas Regiment was a bullet in the rear of his heart and Dr. Eastlake says he cannot recover. Bradley's signal man is with him with a shattered jaw, having been wounded three times before dropping out. Capt. Bradley's courier, Gen. Oda's management of the campaign, but says he is overworked. The captain recommends the pouring in of troops enough to suppress the rebels. He speaks in terms of the warmest admiration of the American troops, who, he says, have displayed the utmost coolness and bravery. He brings a sensational report with reference to the rifles of the Filipinos, saying that the range of the rifles and the character of the wounds shows that they are not Mousers. In the same connection he gives currency to the rumor that, before the outbreak, a Japanese firm in Tokyo filled a large order to the Filipinos for the deadly Murata rifle, which has a much longer range than the American weapon. The sale is alleged to have been consummated secretly and without the knowledge of the Japanese government.

Strong indignation is expressed in Hongkong over the reported withdrawal of Great Britain from Shantung. It is said that an indemnity of $50,000 was accepted by Great Britain.

PEACE NOT ASSURED.

HALFOUR INTIMATES TROUBLE WITH THE TRANSVAAL.

England's First Lord of the Treasury Says There are Other Means Beside Diplomacy, by Which the Knot May Be Untied.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

LONDON, July 27.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In the course of a speech at a Conservative luncheon this afternoon, A. J. Balfour, First Lord of the Treasury and government leader in the House of Commons, in discussing the Transvaal situation, said that if the government's endless patience and endless desire to prevent matters coming to a crisis, and if all the resources of diplomacy were ineffectual to untie the knot, other means must inevitably be found to loosen it. Balfour, however, said he took a more sanguine view of the situation. He understood the Transvaal was prepared to grant some substantial redress, although quite in accordance with Great Britain's standard.

It was manifestly impossible, Balfour said, that Great Britain should permanently submit to free-born Englishmen being treated as an inferior race. While he did not take a despairing view of the situation, it would be folly to pretend that all the difficulties had been solved or to proclaim a peace which was not yet assured.

BRITISH BLUE BOOK.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

LONDON, July 28.—The aspect of the South Africa crisis has been little changed, according to the latest dispatch. The Blue Book issued, which brings out the history down to July 22, is chiefly interesting as showing that the Cape ministry approves President Kruger's latest proposals as adequate, and that the Transvaal refused friendly consultation with the British government before promulgating the franchise bill. It is understood that negotiations have ceased since this period, between Great Britain and the Transvaal.

ILLINOIS ELOPEMENT.

Peoria Catholic Girl Runs Away With a Divorced Man.

[BY DIRECTOR OF THE TIMES.]

PEORIA (Ill.), July 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Miss Mayne Spalding, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Spalding, and niece of Bishop John Lancaster Spalding of the Roman Catholic Church, eloped today with Robert M. Lytle, a Protestant of this city. They secured a license in the Peoria County Court, and boarded a train for Chicago, where, it is assumed, they were married this evening. The Spalding family is grief-stricken over the affair, and for several reasons.

They object to Lytle as a son-in-law, because it is their desire that their daughter should marry in the church. Then the fact that the Catholic church, of which Miss Spalding is a member, stands in the way of their marriage. It stipulates that a woman of Catholic faith must not marry a divorced man. Lytle, who came here from Washington, Ill., has been married before, and three years ago his wife procured a divorce. The family is furthermore fearful that if the couple were married today, the ceremony may have been performed by other than a Catholic priest.

The attachment between Miss Spalding and Lytle dates back to about the time that he was divorced. They were seen together frequently, and upon a number of occasions the young woman's suitor called at her home. Her parents, perceiving that there was a very strong friendship between them, feared lest it might ripen into love and a subsequent desire to marry. They at once made objections to this for the reason already given, and without making known their reasons, sent their daughter away to school. Three months ago she returned, but years of absence had not lessened her regard for Lytle, and their association since her return has culminated in their elopement and supposed marriage.

IN THE CREMATORY.

Bob Ingersoll's Remains Turned at Last to Ashes.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—The body of Robert G. Ingersoll was removed from Dobbs Ferry to the Fresh Pond, L. I., crematory this morning. The body was in a plain black coffin without ornament. The top of the coffin was covered with roses. The funeral party included Mrs. Ingersoll, her two daughters, Clinton B. Farrell, Walston H. Brown, J. O. J. Smith and Mrs. Smith and Frederick C. Penfield. The body was placed in the crematory shortly after noon. It will take about six to eight hours for the incineration to be completed. Only the members of the funeral party were allowed in the crematory.

THE HAGUE CONFERENCE.

THE HAGUE, July 27.—The committee engaged in drafting the definitive act, spent the day in attempting to reconcile the demand of Sir Julian Pauncefote that non-signatory powers be entitled to adhere to the arbitration convention, with the unanimous consent of the signatory powers, and the amendment of Count Nigra, head of the Italian delegation, permitting such adhesion on powers opposes. The attempt, however, was without result. The plenary-conference amendment dealing with the laws and customs of war and the adaptation of the Geneva convention to naval war, were definitely adopted. The arbitration scheme still awaits Great Britain's acceptance of and acquisition to the plan.

TENDERED A RECEPTION.

CAPT. LAWRENCE WELCOMED BY HUNDREDS OF FRIENDS.

Informal Gathering at the Armory Last Night to Pay Respects—Military Officers Present—A Fine Display of Photographs.

An informal reception was tendered Capt. George E. Lawrence last night at the Armory, and during the evening that capable young officer either called for a short time to pay their respects to him or remained to participate in the dancing which followed the welcome home. Capt. Lawrence, before the Spanish-American war, commanded the Signal Corps of the First Brigade, National Guard of California. Soon after the departure from this city of the Seventh Regiment, he secured an opportunity to go to Manila as an officer in that branch of the service, and for thirteen months he saw active service throughout the time in the campaign against the Filipino rebels.

Almost from that historic Saturday night, February 22, the insurgents drew the fire of a Nebraska outpost and precipitated the fighting which was the beginning of the work in which the American troops are still engaged. Capt. Lawrence was on duty in the camp or another, until several weeks ago he was ordered home. Other members of his old command had enlisted for service there, but it was expected that none of them were assigned to duty under him. Most of his service was with the Second Division, Eighth Army Corps, and throughout the time he was assigned to other temporary duties. The very nature of his duty required him to be on or near the firing line many of the general advance of the American troops, for the work of the Signal Corps was to maintain the means of communication between the several commands and brigade headquarters, and from brigade to division headquarters. That this service was at times most difficult and dangerous is shown by the official reports of general officers. In these reports the work of the Signal Corps has been particularly mentioned. The number of times Capt. Lawrence acquitted himself with credit, whatever the duty to which he was assigned.

The reception to him last night was altogether informal. The drill room of the Armory was decorated with the regulation red and white signal flags of the Signal Corps and there was a profusion of flowers, presented with the compliments of the ladies of more than one hundred attended the reception. First Lieutenant H. E. Sabine of the Signal Corps acted as master of ceremonies, and presented the visitors. Capt. Lawrence, attired in a fatigues uniform, received his friends at the north end of the hall. Many persons who were not acquainted with him called to tender their congratulations on the excellent record he had made, and upon his safe return home. Among the military men present were Brig. Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, Col. John R. Berry, Maj. M. T. Owens, Signal Officer First Brigade, N.G.C., Capt. Robert H. W. G. C. A. Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., Capt. F. L. Reynolds, Co. F. First Lieut. Arthur Bradbury, Co. A, who also in the service in the Philippines, and the staff of Gen. Harrison Gray Otis: First Lieutenant W. K. Fiske and Second Lieutenant J. M. White, Troop D, unattached, and Lieut. G. C. C. Lieut. F. VanVleet, Engineers Division, Naval Militia. Thirty-five members of the Signal Corps formerly commanded by Capt. Lawrence, and who were in uniform, and looked after the comfort and pleasure of the guests. Quite a number of members of the several infantry companies and cavalry troop were also present in uniform, to assist the members of the Signal Corps.

After all present had been presented to Capt. Lawrence, the program was introduced by Lieut. Sabine, and delivered a brief address, welcoming the captain home, and speaking of his services in the Philippines. He stated that owing to illness, Brig. Gen. Last had been unable to be present, and had sent his regrets. After Col. Berry's speech, and a prayer was offered and dancing was the order of the evening until a late hour.

On two long tables at either side of the drill room, were displayed more than 100 photographs taken by Capt. Lawrence, many of them while under fire. These pictures show clearly what kind of work the American troops are doing for they include scenes from those of the peaceful and picturesque landscape where there is no sign of war to scenes in the firing line, in the trenches, in the march, and in the camps. One of the pictures shows Maj. Gen. MacArthur, Brig. Gen. Hale and Brig. Gen. Otis on the platform of a railroad train. Another shows Brig. Gen. Otis during the advance on Malolos. A large number of the pictures are of buildings riddled with shot and other shells, the deadly effect of the American fire on the enemy, the trenches formerly occupied by the insurgents being shown almost filled with the dead. The pictures showing the position of the American troops just before entering Caloocan was secured, though attended with the greatest danger. The picture shows a long line of soldiers lying prone, their rifles at "ready," even the company officers being in similar positions.

Capt. Lawrence said last night that this picture was taken while the bullets were whistling like the singing of mosquitoes in a New Jersey swamp, and the very difficulty of getting it makes him prize it the more. The views of the work of the artillery commands, their camps, etc., are particularly fine. One of them shows two guns ready to fire, and another shows the same guns at the instant of their discharge. These were the first guns used in the battle of Sunday, February 22, although the pictures do not show the first shots from them. Capt. Lawrence said he would cheerfully show his pictures to any persons desirous of seeing them at any time.

A banquet will be tendered Capt. Lawrence this evening at Levy's by the members of the Signal Corps. Covers will be laid for forty persons. On this occasion the captain will relate some of his experiences in the field.

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT

Statement by McClelland's Attorneys Regarding That Lawsuit.

Messrs. Dyer and Potter furnish The Times with the following signed statement regarding the lawsuit of J. W. McClelland against Capt. and Mrs. C. J. Ball, giving their version of the case:

"Capt. Charles J. Ball, having considered it necessary to present a communication to the several papers of Los Angeles concerning the suit of J. W. McClelland against himself and wife, Bertha S. Ball, in which he prefers certain charges against the late J. W. McClelland, and in which he threatens prosecution against ourselves as attorneys for plaintiff, we, while preferring to fight our battles in justice to ourselves, allow the statements in said communication to stand as admitted, although we care nothing about his senile and impotent threats and ravings.

Ball, had taken advantage of his (plaintiff's) mental weakness to procure his property and then desert him, all of which we will produce letters and records to substantiate when the case is heard in court.

"We communicated with Ball and wife about the case and our intentions to prosecute the same as any attorney would do in any case before resorting to the last remedy, that is, the courts.

"The case was discussed with Mr. Ball at intervals for several days, and he stated that the matters between his wife and Mr. McClelland (her former husband) should be settled, and at the request of his attorney, W. E. Dunn, all matters were eliminated from the complaint other than those relating to the defendant, Mrs. Ball, having received moneys from plaintiff without returning the same, it being also stated by Mr. Dunn that an offer of settlement would be made after filing the said complaint that would be entirely satisfactory to our client and ourselves, the object being to file the complaint and to agree upon the amount to be received in settlement, a judgment then to be entered so as to have a final determination of the case in the courts. It being also expressly stated that if a compromise was not effected, we could then proceed as indicated in our original action now on file.

"An offer which we considered entirely inadequate was made and rejected. We are not in the blackmailing line. We intend to prosecute this action to its end, being confident of success, by reason of the records of the court and the letters of defendant, Bertha S. Ball, now in our possession, which are open to the inspection of all interested persons, which can only be determined by the courts, but the future records will present the best evidence of the character of this action and allegations of attempted blackmail.

[Signed] "DYER & POTTER," Attorneys for J. W. McClelland."

PASSAIC FOR SALE.

Single-turret Monitor Will Soon be Disposed Of.

NEW YORK, July 27.—A special to the Tribune from Washington says that the Navy Department has decided to offer the single turret monitor Passaic, now at Pensacola, to the highest bidder. The vessel, which was manned and sent South during the war with Spain, to take part in the blockade of Havana, had been loaned to the Connecticut and Georgia naval militia as a practice vessel in recent years, and was in first-rate condition. After the war she was assigned to the Louisiana Reserves, but was later replaced by the auxiliary yacht Stranger for training purposes at New Orleans.

The Passaic has just been surveyed by a body of naval officers, who have appraised the material of which she is composed at $12,000. The department has therefore determined to sell her if that amount can be secured. It is suggested, however, that one of the South or Central American governments would be glad to acquire her at double or treble that figure. Her hull and machinery cost nearly $500,000, and her armament as much more. She is for all practical purposes nearly as effective as the four monitors authorized by Congress a year ago, which are now under contract, to cost, ready for sea, about $1,250,000. She would constitute a formidable element in maintaining respect, if possessed by any of several Latin-American republics, and it is thought one of them hopes to secure her.

CHILEAN COAST STEAMERS.

Service May Be Extended to San Francisco.

[A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

VALPARAISO (Chile), July 27.—[By South American Cable.] It is announced that the Chilean coast steamers will extend their service to San Francisco. Congress has been discussing the advisability of allowing foreigners to be chosen as members of the municipal councils. The measure has been favorably received, which shows a further step toward good local self-government. The municipal councils at present give rise to the most scandalous scenes, as the majority of the members now belong to the lowest class of the people.

The government has appropriated 150,000 pesos to relieve the stress of the people who were driven from their inundated homes by the recent floods. Furious storms on the coast of Chile continue, doing great damage. The gold premium is 15 per cent.

MANY PERSONS DROWNED.

Passenger Steamer Sinks on the River Volga.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

BERLIN, July 27.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A dispatch received here from Nijni Novgorod today reports that a cargo vessel and passenger steamer collided on the River Volga. The passenger steamer sank and 155 persons were drowned.

HANNA SELLS OUT.

Ohio Firm Retires from the Mining and Transportation Business.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

CLEVELAND, July 27.—A big transaction, involving the transfer of property worth several millions of dollars from M. A. Hanna & Co. to the National Steel Company was consummated today. The sale includes the iron mining property of M. A. Hanna & Co. in Michigan, as well as its fleet of vessels on the lakes.

This transaction, which is one of the largest of recent years, means that M. A. Hanna & Co. are to retire from mining and transportation business. It is also known that the firm is negotiating for the sale of its coal mining properties in the Pittsburgh district to the recently-formed soft coal trust. The transaction has been consummated very quietly, and nothing became public until the details had been completed.

STEAMER SEA GULL SINKS.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—The stern-wheel steamer Sea Gull, partly laden with salt, turned turtle and sank at the Spear-street dock this morning. No lives were lost.

REQUISITION FOR A MURDERER.

ELLENBURG (Wash.), July 27.—Louis Billow, charged with the murder of J. W. McClelland, was taken East tonight. Requisition papers were secured.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRES

Night Dispatches Condensed.

The steamer Acropolis, which sailed from Victoria, B. C., for Australia yesterday, had 230 tons of beer for Honolulu. A special to the Salt Lake Tribune from Halley, Idaho, says the Halley Hot Springs Hotel was destroyed by fire yesterday. The estimated loss is $75,000. George Ladd, a diamond expert and jeweler, is dead at his home in New York city, aged 82 years. He went to California in 1859 and remained there ten years.

DAY DISPATCHES CONDENSED.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mackay sailed for the United States on the Teutonic from Queenstown yesterday. Their return to America is due to the death of Mrs. Mackay, whose condition, however, is not serious. The Teutonic also carries among her passengers a young Irish lad in charge of Mother Mathilde and Sister Teresa, who are going to join a sisterhood at Galveston.

STRIKES AND LABOR.

Some of the newspapers which are engaged in a frantic endeavor to save the country, profess to find in the prevailing epidemic of strikes in the Eastern States, an evidence, or indication, that the industrial condition of the country is in a very bad way. These sapient molders of public opinion tell us that the indications of prosperity which are found in all parts of the country are merely superficial; that there is, in fact, no real prosperity, and that calamity is in reality stalking in seven-league boots over the land, grinding the laboring man into the dust, consuming his substance, making "the rich richer and the poor poorer," and inviting wreck, riot, ruin, revolution, and other rapping things too numerous and too horrible to mention in detail.

But, notwithstanding these dire forebodings of the professional calamity, the fact remains—and it is patent to all unprejudiced observers—that the present unsettled state of affairs in the industrial world are a sure indication of prosperous conditions, not of the reverse. Laboring men do not, as a rule, strike for higher wages when work is hard to obtain at any price. When there are thousands of men seeking employment, those who have it are slow to leave their situations upon a slight pretext, realizing the difficulty of securing new situations. But when work is plenty—when employment is seeking labor—instead of labor seeking employment—the temptation to engage in a strike upon the slightest of pretenses is strongest. Hence the unsettled conditions in the industrial world at the present time, when labor is very generally employed throughout the country, at much better wages than were paid two and three years ago.

The present condition of affairs, when contrasted with the conditions prevailing in the years 1893, 1894, and 1895, furnishes a striking object-lesson, which will not, be it said, be lost upon the laboring men of this country. In those years, thousands upon thousands of laboring men were out of employment, and those who were fortunate enough to have employment were compelled to accept reduced wages and shorter hours. Those were the days of Coxey armies, of soup-houses, of free trade, and of Democratic statehood. The national election of 1896 inaugurated a new regime, the keynote of which was industrial and commercial prosperity for the American people. The conditions thus inaugurated have continued unabated down to the present time, and there is no probability of a return to the panic conditions of 1893-5, so long as the Republican party, with its progressive ideas and its constructive methods, remains in control of the ship of state.

If the London press knew more than it does about the Alaskan boundary dispute possibly it would not be so infernally positive. We notice that when a fellow is only half informed he usually gets bullheaded, and the London press is talking just now as if it were afflicted with that complaint.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MINES.

Now that a mining organization has been formed in Southern California it is about time for the members to look around and see what practical good may be accomplished.

Outside of those who are engaged in the mining industry—and even many of them—few persons have an adequate conception of the importance of the mining industry in Southern California, which has hitherto been so greatly overshadowed by horticulture. The latest reports of the California State Mining Bureau, some of which have been reproduced in the Mining Review, show that there are over four thousand mines, including prospects, in Southern California, the majority of which are being worked and developed. These mines employ about ten thousand men, some working their properties on their own account, some working for others. Some few mining companies employ as many as 100 men and more.

Two years ago it was computed that there were 145 stamp mills in Southern California. Adding those which have been erected since, not including cyanide plants, brings the number up to 164. These mills have 1140 stamps, the majority of which are kept busy. There are eleven cyanide plants in operation, and the number is being rapidly increased.

In 1897 the value of the mineral production of Southern California was estimated at $5,685,608. In 1898 the value of its mineral production was computed at $7,600,000. For the present year the value will show a further increase. The State Mining Bureau reports the value of the mineral production of Southern California for 1898 at $6,839,959, divided as follows: Los Angeles county, $1,732,357; Orange, $65,600; Ventura, $654,063; San Bernardino, $1,644,152; San Diego, $694,418; Riverside, $247,022; Santa Barbara, $472,784; Kern, $1,129,573. No account is taken of the output of the mines in the southern portion of Inyo county. If that be added, the total value of the mineral production of Southern California for 1898 would exceed $7,000,000. The total amount of capital invested in mines, mills, water plants and such other machinery as is necessary to the development and operation of mining properties in Southern California is computed to be not less than $26,000,000.

This, as the Mining Review says, is a good reason for the existence of such a body as the Miners' Association of Southern California, and should encourage the association to put forward every effort in the development of so promising a field. Every new mine that is opened up in Southern California not only adds directly to the revenue of this section, but also furnishes a valuable market to our farmers and manufacturers.

A dispatch from the special correspondent of THE TIMES in Washington confirms what we have known for weeks, that Gen. Otis will not be removed or superseded, and that his authority will not be diminished, unless it be upon his own request, which request has not been received, and is not expected in Washington. These unqualified and emphatic assertions come as directly from the President as it is possible for information for publication to come, and should serve to set at rest, once and for all, the idle stories which have been put afloat in regard to this matter by irresponsible persons. Gen. Otis has shown most excellent judgment and discretion in the handling of a superlatively difficult problem, and he deserves the unqualified confidence which the President reposes in him.

The Klondike Nugget, a paper published at Dawson City, prints an editorial warning Americans not to be persuaded to flock to that district by reason of the millions of treasure that have been coming out during the past few weeks. The point is certainly well taken, and for their own good it is to be hoped that our adventurous spirits may govern themselves accordingly. The record of death and suffering in Alaska is so long and so gruesome that to the same mind no number of two-much-gold stories should be permitted to have weight or influence. The man who would a mining go can find ample room to prospect this side the frost line, where there is a plentiful supply of fuel and antiscorbutics.

The San Francisco Chronicle calls attention to the fact that Canada could not declare war if she wanted to, as that is the sole prerogative, under the British flag, of Great Britain herself, and remarks with irony that "Canada, in fact, is the small boy who thrusts his head out of the window of his father's home and threatens to 'lick' his stalwart neighbor across the street." Of course, if the neighbor is good natured, as we are, he will let the little boy howl and "get even" by saying nothing and saving word. They talk of war who have no show to fight.

The gallant old Hartford, that historic ship upon which Admiral Farragut won imperishable glory in the battle of Mobile Bay, is to be restored to commission early in September and a large force of mechanics are working on her at the Mare Island Navy Yard, to that end. Her battery will consist of twelve 6-inch rapid-firing guns and an equipment of renown that will make the grand old fighting machine the pride of the American navy as long as she is afloat, no matter how many larger and more powerful vessels are added to that force that sails the sea.

Another paper railroad scheme has "gone bust" and its treasurer is out on bail under a charge of embezzlement. It is the "West Shore," which started out, on paper, to construct a standard-gauge line from San Francisco to Santa Cruz. The only unusual thing about this is the fact that the man with the cash has been arrested. Usually he manages to make his escape to the section where the timber is tall and the underbrush particularly thick.

The Prince of Monaco has refused to fight Count Castellane in a duel on the ground that Anna Gould's purchase is not a count at all, but the offspring of the servants of the house whose name he bears, and there is apparent truth in the Prince's statement. This goes to show that another American girl has taken her pigs to a mighty poor market.

A story is flying about that the primary cause of the Brooklyn street strike was not discontent on the part of workmen, but that it was brought about for the purpose of bearing the company's stock. If this can be proven the men responsible for it ought to become inhabitants of the prison at Sing Sing for the remainder of their natural lives.

So able an earthquake authority as Prof. Le Conte declares that the Hawaiian volcanoes had nothing to do with causing the recent seismic disturbances in this vicinity, consequently we must attribute the tremor to the fact that a political boss at Catalina Island took a whack at a golf ball, missed it, strained his back and the earth trembled.

An orator at Long Beach has been lecturing on "The Uses of Ugliness," but failed to bring out one of its strongest points, i.e., that the ugly kid is seldom kidnapped and that the ugly maiden is seldom abducted. As for ugly men, we have observed that they succeed usually in capturing the prettiest wives.

The Governor of Nebraska is coming to San Francisco to greet the noble men of that State who have been winning glory in the Philippines. It is evident that the Governor has a strong desire to let bygones be bygones, but wait until we hear what the boys have to say about it.

Chris Buckley is once more fixing his sightless eyes on the Democratic flesh pots of California and things in San Francisco are all torn up. With Dan Burns on one side and "The Blind White Devil" on the other, California is promised a vivid illustration of the "dog-eat-dog" business.

The possessor of $20,000,000 died in San Francisco the other day and now he is as poor as the tramp who lies in the gutter. And think how he must have worked and worried in order to accumulate all that money! In some respects the tramp appears to have the best of it.

The French press is complaining that this country has come it over our Gallic friends in the new reciprocity treaty. We cannot believe that our people have broken their record of letting the other fellow get the best of us. The French press must surely be mistaken.

Lucky Baldwin has decided to put a roof over the squatty ruins of the Baldwin Hotel and now the people of the metropolis insist upon calling him "One-Story" Baldwin, beside many other names, some of which are unfit to print in a great religious daily.

And now the estimated gold output from Alaska has shrunk to $10,000,000, with a number of guessers yet to hear from. Alaskan such things be and overcome us like one of Bill Shakespeare's summer clouds without our special wonder.

The newspaper men who signed that round robin certainly have a sure enough right to feel aggrieved, for thus far nobody has been able to discover enough sympathy with their roar to make a ripple on the surface of things.

The fact that the champagne importations to this country have largely increased show that McKinley prosperity is getting in its sure work even though the Bryanites are satisfied with 50-cent and $1 banquets.

Perhaps it would be just as well for California to wait until Uncle Sam has a battleship that he can name after her, instead of permitting the use of so beautiful a name on a mere cruiser. What do you say, people?

We feel under many obligations to Senator Datto for calling down Butcher Weyer, although had something even worse than that happened to the general, Americans generally would have been able to stand it.

Admiral Dewey's refusal to go to Vienna in order to be banqueted shows conclusively that some of our people here at home who want to make a lion of him will be made to look like sheep.

What a boon it will be to have a horseless carriage in daily use that cannot stand with its front feet on the sidewalk and its nose in the citizen's ear when he takes his walks abroad.

If the earthquake wanted to do us a real kindly turn it should have started our abandoned oil wells to spouting as well as open up an increase in the water supply.

The Germans are complaining because Admiral Kautz's band did not play the German anthem when the Philadelphia left Apla. Perhaps the boys didn't know the tune.

Chicago is crowding over the advent of a Schenck baby. That town is simply great for trying all kinds of new schemes, but the beauty of it is, this one worked and now there is another baby boy, made to order, in Chicago. Hoary, not to say whoopee!

Those Kansas girls shouldn't be too hard on the boys who stayed at home. Everybody in Kansas couldn't enlist in the Twentieth Regiment and swim and fight with Funston.

Although the automo goes without horses, the concerns that build them appear to be having an almighty close connection with the stock market.

We are glad there was one woman in Chicago who felt called upon to drape those poor unclad water nymphs, even if she wege crazy.

A man who doesn't intend to commit murder or to engage in rioting never objects to the calling out of troops.

There appears to be enough water in Luzon just now to Funstonize our entire army over there.

Andrew Lang says that the game of golf is of Dutch and not of Scotch origin. Hoot mon!

Jim Creelman appears to be a fairly inefficient Filipino junta all by himself.

The Playhouses.

LOS ANGELES THEATRE.—Verdi's "Un Ballo in Maschera" with its entrancing music, its dramatic action and tragic climax, was presented here last evening by the Lombardi company for the first time, when principals and chorus were given yet another opportunity to display their resources, and their exceptional capacity vocally and otherwise. The scenes, transplanted bodily, for political reasons, from their original European atmosphere to that of puritanical Massachusetts, seemed slightly incongruous to those who are familiar with Boston and its vicinity, but that did not detract from the effervescent sparkle of the beautiful music in the first act, nor the more intense but no less melodious numbers which follow one another so closely throughout the entire opera. Glimpses of Verdi's later and more modern manner are found in many of the themes and their treatment, and the singers manifested the same conscientious sincerity and high order of ability that marks all their work.

In the great duet between Riccardo and Amelia at the opening of the third act where they confess their love, Badaracco and Barducci brought down the house. Both were in magnificent voice, and each fully met the vocal and dramatic exactions of the number. Ferrar's voice too, was at its best, as Sostegni, as the page Oscar, received a recall after her little solo, "Saper Varriste." Umberto, Bergami and Vizzardiell each lent in their aid by their voices, and the concerted numbers were sung, one and all, with fine effect.

During one of the entrées, Mme. Helena Modjeska, who with a party occupied one of the loges, was presented with a handsome cluster of roses by Manager Wyatt, and the audience expressed its entire approbation by enthusiastic and prolonged applause. Tonight, by special and repeated requests, Bellini's masterpiece, "Norma," will be presented, of which Richard Wagner wrote:

"In this opera Bellini certainly swung himself up to the highest pinnacle of his talent, and disclosed himself as a phenomenon. The action, which lacks all theateric coups and dazzling effects, involuntarily recalls the Greek tragedy. Every emotional state presents itself to us plastically, nothing is confusedly blended, and a really inspired impersonator of Norma must be able to provide the creative artist with inspiring models for a long time. How self-possessed, noble and grand are the surroundings of the play and its entire color. How simply grandiose in style. The periodic structure is sure and measured; movement is followed by rest, and Bellini utilized the manner of Italian composition in giving every air, every duet its regular and fixed periodic cut."

The cast tonight will include Signorina Adalgisa Rossi as Norma; Signorina Anna Sostegni as Ultime; Signorina Ernestina Umberto will be heard as Clotilde, and Sig. Ricard Petrovich will make his initial appearance in this city as Pollicino. Sig. Petrovich is a famous tenor, who has sung this role with Patti, Nielsen, and the Grail attractions.

ATTRACTION TONIGHT. The benefit performance in aid of the medal fund is to be given at the amphion this evening, and has been announced. It was generally understood that in addition to other pleasing features of the evening, a short speech of thanks to those present, for their interest displayed, would be made by Senator White, for the Native Sons. This feature, however, is to be omitted, at the Senator's request, he having found it impossible to attend. The committee of Native Sons that has the details of the benefit in hand have arranged for the showing by the biograph of several new views of a military character. The pictures have never before been shown on the Coast. They include a view of the Eleventh Ohio Volunteers, the "President's Own," the Eighteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers, a dress parade of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, United States Volunteers, and a repulse in the trenches of an attack upon the volunteers in Cuba. The Euterpean quartette will sing a number of patriotic songs during the evening, and other special events are chronicled in the programme for the night.

DESTINY.

Serene I fold my hands and wait,
 Not care for wind or tide or fate;
 I have no more against time or sea,
 For, lo! my own shall come to me.

I stay my haste, I make delays,
 For what avail this eager pace?
 I stand amid the eternal wars,
 And what is mine shall know my face.

Asleep, awake, by night or day,
 The friends I seek are seeking me;
 No wind can drive my bark astray,
 Nor change the tide of destiny.

What matter if I stand alone?
 I wait with joy the coming years;
 My heart shall stand where it has sworn,
 And garner up its fruit of tears.

The waters know their own and draw
 The brook that springs in yonder heights;
 So flows the spirit with equal flow,
 Unto the soul of pure delight.

The stars come nightly to the sky,
 The tidal wave unto the sea;
 Nor time, nor space, nor deep, nor high,
 Can keep my own away from me.

RECORDS OF HEROISM.

LIST OF THOSE KILLED AND WOUNDED IN THE FAR EAST.

Many Pages Filled and Others Being Added Daily—To Remain a Portion of the Permanent Archives of the United States.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The record of volunteer organizations in the Philippines is being rapidly completed at the War Department. It is expected that by the middle of September the seventeen volunteer regiments and detachments of California and Utah Artillery, which have rendered such valuable service to the cause during the past eight months, will be returned to the United States and mustered out of the service. The records of daring bravery, heroism and unflinching courage which these regiments have made stands unique in the history of the gallant deeds of American soldiers. During the entire campaign in the Philippines, not one of these organizations has been ordered to perform service which they have not accomplished to the entire satisfaction and admiration of the commanding officers.

In an obscure corner in the massive building which contains the War, State and Navy departments of the government, a corps of clerks are busily engaged recording the list of names of those who have been killed and wounded in the campaign. The regimental organizations are preserved in the list made, each man killed and each man wounded being entered upon a page in a large book devoted exclusively to the regiment to which he belongs. Many pages are filled and others are being added day by day. Those devoted to the volunteer regiments are organized, filled and the records are practically closed so far as these organizations are concerned, as they have already been ordered returned home and mustered out.

The work of this division will forever remain a portion of the permanent archives of the government, the name of every man who has served in defense of the flag in the Philippines, or who has received a wound, or who has become incapacitated for further service by disease, is being recorded upon the official parchment, which will be filed away for future reference. The records of the volunteer organizations which served in the Philippines none are more interesting than those of the First California Volunteer Infantry and the detachment of California Artillery. The list of killed and wounded is nearly, if not quite as large, as that of the other volunteer organizations, and yet considering the service which these organizations have seen, it is remarkably low. It nevertheless indicates the loss which the State has sustained in its efforts to assist the Federal government in putting down the rebellion of Aguinaldo and his followers against the authority of the United States. Up to and including last Saturday, the list of dead numbered thirty-six, including two colonels, two sergeants and one quarter-master-sergeant, while the list of wounded numbered thirty-two, including one first lieutenant.

No volunteer regiment that sailed for the Philippines will return home with a brighter record than the First California Volunteer Infantry. From the time it arrived at Manila, about the first of July, 1898, the organization was looked upon both by the commanding general and the troops as one of the most reliable and courageous in the islands. It has participated in many battles, making a magnificent record for itself, and its valorous recognition of its valorous services in the reports of the commanding generals.

All of the six members of the California Artillery detachments in the list of dead died from natural causes, with the exception of one, who was wounded. Both of the members of the artillery, however, who were wounded received their injuries in action.

DETACHMENT OF CALIFORNIA ARTILLERY.

List of wounded:

Lionel Sturman, private, D, arm, slight.
 George Cathelin, private, D, leg, severe.

The percentage of killed and wounded in the regiment is looked upon by the officials here as remarkably low, especially considering the prominent part the First California Volunteer Infantry has taken in the campaign. The list of dead is only about 3 per cent, while the list of wounded is about 25-30 per cent, making a total of killed and wounded of a little over 5 per cent, of the entire regiment.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

President McKinley has done a graceful thing in naming the fortifications at Ballast Point, San Diego Bay, after the late Gen. W. S. S. "In the light of the years that are fading" no nobler name is known. Under the fierce light of partisan criticism that has beat about the careers of the great leaders in the war for the Union and especially about that of Rosecrans, his character as citizen and soldier is spotless. This tender compliment from the Chief Magistrate is especially pleasing to Southern California, where the gallant Rosecrans ended his days.

Fullerton shies her castor into the ring in the following royal manner: "Local bank deposits have made a marvelous increase, and there is not a house in the city vacant, and scarcely a business concern that it not riding the wave of prosperity." And all this because of oil and water. When one sees a Fullerton man "patting Juva" with his heels and otherwise in a finicky condition, his neighbor will not look sad, as of old, and say "Ole he's got tacks or warts!" but close down his right eyelid and ejaculates: "He!" The procession is moving on.

It is a sad thing to chronicle failure, especially when the endeavor and liberal capital have been used in vain, yet the failure of the Klondike craze must be recorded. The Redlands Alaska Mining Company sums up the failure of the Koyukuk River expedition as follows: "All the gold taken out of the country would not suffice to plate a collar button." The men who loved all the rigors of Arctic winters to make life happier for their loved ones have reaped a bitter experience, but it is happily leavened with kindly sympathy from those who can honor the pluck and determination behind the effort, though they may not see wisdom in it.

S. W. Ames of Santa Ana leads all previous records this year in obtaining from three and one-quarter acres 12,000 pounds of apricots, from which his net receipts were $1000. The men in the East who are laboriously turning over the surface of thousands of acres of land like that on Bill Nye's celebrated Asheville property—so poor that you couldn't raise a decent disturbance on it—this meaty item should be of interest. The earth has quaked, the mossback has yawped, the industrious visiting liar has lied, the heavens have been charry of water, and even Chris Buckley and Dan Burns are doing politics, and yet this wonderful county is making the poor farmer rich and the working man happy. Excursion rates to settlers.

Santa Barbara is not only in the procession, but in the band wagon, and about to blow the bass drum. All this because the right-of-way is nearly all secured for the Surf-Bilwood gap. What a grand shaking-up the old town will receive when the through flyer pulls in! The musty habits and traditions of the past will yield place to advanced civilization and instead of the beads and benisons of the good padres at the mission, the globe-trotter will find the liguam vitae sandwich, the copper-lunged hotel runner and the seductive gold brick vendor. There will be, of course, an atmosphere of prayer about the depot, but travelers will count and inspect their change all the same. Beautiful Santa Barbara.

LOVINGLY LAID TO REST.

DETECTIVE GOODMAN BURIED WITH BESEEMING HONORS.

Obsequies Conducted Under Auspices of the Masons and Attended by Many Friends and Brother Officers—Resolutions of Respect Adopted.

With all the respect and tenderness that can be shown a dead brother and comrade, John Gabriel Goodman, late police detective, was laid to rest yesterday morning, where it lay in state until the hour of the funeral, 2:30 p.m. Many people called during the day to take a last look at the familiar face, which was smiling and benignant as in life.

The body was removed from Breese Hall, morgue, to Masonic Temple yesterday morning, where it lay in state until the hour of the funeral, 2:30 p.m. Many people called during the day to take a last look at the familiar face, which was smiling and benignant as in life.

At 1:45 o'clock all the officers of the night and morning watches assembled at the Police Station in dress uniform and white gloves. Chief Glass read to the assembled officers a tribute to the memory of their departed comrade, which was accepted by unanimous vote as embodying the sentiment of the department on the death of one of its most respected members. The preambles and resolutions were in part as follows:

"John G. Goodman was born in Russia, near the city of St. Petersburg, August 18, 1846. He came to the United States when a young man, and settled in the city of Elgin, Ill., where he engaged in the jewelry trade. He married in Elgin in 1871, and in 1874 moved to St. Charles, Ill., still continuing his vocation there. In 1876 he lost all he had by fire and again in 1878. He removed to Tucson, Ariz., in 1880, and again established himself in one of the largest jewelry stores in the Territory. His business was very prosperous, but he lost nearly all he made in mining speculations. In 1887, he removed to this city and engaged in repairing and watch work, which did not prove satisfactory, and in April, 1889, he accepted a position as officer in this department.

"His zeal and energy soon secured a promotion to the detective department, which position he has since held. He was an honest, capable and reliable man, and this department has suffered a great loss by his death. Had he cared more for his own comfort and less for the duties of the position which he held in this department, he might now have been among us, but such was not his character.

"He was kind, gentle and good, and his inflexible character never stifled his charity for the wants of others. And when the Messenger appointed to summon him beyond the confines of this world reached him, he found him ready with alacrity and cheerfulness, to answer the summons of the grim Messenger into the presence of the Great Master; therefore, be it

"Resolved that in the death of our brother Goodman, the department has lost one of its most faithful and efficient officers, the community an honorable and upright citizen and his family a loving husband and father; that we offer to his bereaved family, over whom sorrow has hung her sable mantle our profoundest sympathy; that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the family of our deceased brother, and that a copy be filed in the archives of this department; be it further,

"Resolved, that the body of our brother Goodman be placed at half-mast for the period of thirty days out of respect of the memory of our deceased brother. J. M. GLASS, "Chief of Police."

At 2:15 o'clock the patrolmen, commanded by Sergts. Jeffries and Morton, and preceded by six mounted officers, marched double file to Masonic Temple, while the Chief and members of the detective force proceeded thither in carriages. They were joined at the temple by members of the Masonic fraternity and other fraternalists to which Detective Goodman belonged, besides many citizens who came to show their respect for the dead officer. The large number of women present was especially noticeable. The large hall in the temple did not have sufficient seating capacity to accommodate all who wished to attend the obsequies.

The casket containing the remains rested in the center of the hall. On top of it lay a large floral star which was labeled with a card bearing the legend, "In memory of John G. Goodman, with compliments of a friend." At the base of the casket was a large floral pillow of which the front was a figure 2 composed of purple blossoms, the figure denoting the number of the badge of office which the deceased had worn so long. Other floral tributes were banked around the coffin.

The funeral services were conducted under the auspices of Southgate Lodge, F. and A. M., West of Main St., W. C. Marsh presiding. Mr. Goodman was a member of Unity Lodge, No. 48, of St. Charles, Ill., but no later than last Friday, the day before he became seriously ill, he received his dimit from his old lodge, with the intention of having his membership transferred to one of the local lodges of Masons this week. He stated at the time that it was his desire to have a Masonic funeral when he was ushered into the beyond, but no one supposed at the moment that his wish would be gratified so soon.

The services began with the singing of "Abide with Me" by a quartette. The Rev. Dr. R. S. Cantine, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, then read selections from the Psalms and the Book of Revelations, and offered an eloquent prayer. The Sweet Bye and Bye was then sung by the quartette, after which Rev. Dr. P. F. Bresse of the Church of the Nazarene preached the funeral sermon, during which he referred to Mr. Goodman as a man who had been honest, upright and devoted to the good of humanity. The exercises were concluded by the reading of the solemn funeral services of the Masonic ritual. While the quartette sang "Nearer My God to Thee" the friends who so desired fled by the door to the west, leaving a little to the north of the crematory. Inside this half circle the mourners, Masons in charge of the funeral and friends were grouped. A company of Royal Foresters in brilliant uniforms, to show the respect of that order, of which Mr. Goodman was a member, were also present.

The services at the grave were exclusively conducted by the Masons, with

HEARING THE PLEAS.

BUT NOT MANY ASSESSMENTS ARE BEING REDUCED.

Important Applications Considered by the Board of Equalization. Hearing on Franchises. Police Matters.

R. A. Bird Found Guilty of Forgery. His Third Trial of Almost a Month's Duration Finally Concluded.

"Old Mystery" Talks—The "Scalpers" Opportunity—Dr. Guin, the Massachusetts Dentist, Still Detained in the City.

So rapidly has the Board of Equalization been doing its work this year that there has been no accumulation of applications and none have been set for hearing today. A number of important petitions were considered yesterday, and more than one which involves thousands of dollars was denied. Tomorrow the bank cases will be heard in part. Next week will be taken up largely with the hearing of applications filed by corporations.

The question of granting street railway franchises will again be considered this morning by the Board of Public Works, if any person interested in these matters has anything to present to the board. The board will make its report to the council on Monday, at which time it is expected that there will be a lively debate between the attorneys representing the opposing sides.

The Board of Police Commissioners will resolve itself into a quasi court this morning for the trial of Patrolman Matuskewicz, who was charged with having been guilty of a crime.

The city and county health officers are making thorough inspection of the section of country near and in the city which is irrigated with sewage. The two physicians desire to know what basis there is for the complaints of the residents of that neighborhood, in which they attribute all of the illness there to the sewage.

The Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee to wait upon the City Council and request that fireproof vaults be erected in the City Hall for the accommodation of the records of the city, some of which are of priceless value. They are now kept simply in tables and are not at all protected from fire.

R. A. Bird, charged with forging the name of G. J. Griffith to a $200 check on the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank in February, 1897, was found guilty as charged, by a jury verdict rendered yesterday.

Henry Gardiner, the freak burglar, who has been running a dumb bluff for three months, inadvertently talked in the County Jail yesterday.

A four hours' hearing of the temporary restraining order in the suit of the railroad companies against the "scalpers" gave the latter a good chance yesterday to unload a lot of stock on hand.

Dr. W. R. Guin, who is wanted in the East on a charge of polygamy, is still in Los Angeles pending a hearing on his petition for writ of habeas corpus. The matter was continued yesterday, and will be taken up by Judge Shaw again this morning.

AT THE CITY HALL.

LOWERING ASSESSMENTS.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION STILL BUSILY AT WORK.

Police Commission to Try Policemen This Morning—Fireproof Vaults Wanted in the City Hall—Health Officers Out Inspecting.

The Board of Equalization, in addition to hearing the numerous applications for assessment reductions from smaller property-owners, considered yesterday a number of the petitions filed by the more extensive owners of realty. During the day more than sixty applications were acted upon and quite a number of others were taken under advisement. The reductions granted yesterday, totaling a total amount of $15,000, making a total since the work of the board began, of $38,132. The largest single reduction made by the board this week was that of $5,000 granted on the personal property account of the Nadeau Hotel. This reduction was necessitated by the fact that practically a double assessment had been made against the property. It had been assessed for solvent credits amounting to $7,000, and in addition the furniture had been listed at $5,000, although it had been included in the other assessment. The City Attorney was called in and asked if both assessments could be legally made. He informed the board that one or the other of them would have to be canceled. The $5,000 assessment was therefore stricken from the rolls.

William M. Garland applied for a reduction from $38,975 to $31,000 on various pieces of property. The application was denied. H. Jevne was granted a reduction from $100,000 to $200,000 on the assessment on fixtures in his place of business.

H. Hansen asked for a reduction of $50 on each of twelve lots, and was granted a total reduction of $720. The request of Bridget Conroy for $10 off the assessment of each of six lots was referred to the Assessor for investigation. Attorney John W. Mitchell appeared in the interest of the owners of the Byrne Block at Third and Broadway. Their request was for a reduction from $100,000 to $50,000. The application was taken under advisement by the board. Similar action was taken on the application for a reduction of $10,000 in the assessment against the Bryson Block.

No applications for reductions are set for hearing today, and the board will meet at 10 o'clock and immediately adjourn until tomorrow when several of the bank assessments will be considered.

TO PROTECT THE RECORDS.

Council to Be Asked to Erect Fireproof Vaults.

A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce consisting of Messrs. Charles Forman, E. F. C. Klokke, H. W. Helman, Homer Laughlin, H. A. O'Melveny, B. W. Lee and F. A. Gibson, has been appointed to urge upon the City Council the necessity for the immediate construction of fireproof vaults for the accommodation of the valuable records of the city. From time to time the Council has been reminded of the fact that records of untold value are wholly without protection from fire, in the City Hall, and many times the heads of city departments have requested just what the committee will urge the Council to do. In the City Assessor's office there are books to replace which would cost thousands of dollars if they were destroyed, and in the City Engineer's office there are maps, field notes and other documents which could not be duplicated if they were once lost, and which are worth more than the City Hall itself, judged from the standpoint of their usefulness in questions involving street lines, plats, surveys, etc. The Council has never ordered the vaults built, because of the great expense and has simply taken a chance which no private corporation would take. The desirability of constructing a fireproof vault in the City Treasurer's office is another improvement which has been called to the attention of the Council from time to time.

The Chamber of Commerce committee will present the matter at the next meeting of the Council, and it is expected that it will be referred to the Finance Committee.

QUESTION OF HEALTH.

Two Health Officers Inspect Lands Irrigated by Sewage.

City Health Officer Powers and County Health Officer Mathus spent all afternoon yesterday in making inspection of the districts south of the city where irrigation is done with sewage, most of which comes from the outfall sewer. From time to time for more than a year, the people residing in that vicinity have complained that the use of sewage for irrigation is very injurious to health and is responsible for most of the sickness which has occurred there. Last year it became necessary to close a school there because of the prevalence of diphtheria and later typhoid fever was almost epidemic. The people asserted that the odors arising from the evaporating sewage and the dissemination of germs from lands on which the sewer water was allowed to flow, was the cause of many deaths. The matter was carried into the courts by them, but that manner of irrigating was not stopped. The two health officers propose to make a thorough inspection of the district and will make public the result of what they observe.

FRANCHISE QUESTION NOT DEAD.

Board of Public Works Will Report on It Monday.

The several applications for street railway franchises which have been in the hands of the Board of Public Works for several weeks, will again be considered by that body at its regular meeting this morning. If those interested in them care to present further arguments, the report on these applications, which was prepared last week, has not been withdrawn and unless there is an unlooked-for change of opinion of the members of the board this report will be presented at the next meeting of the Council. The report is a recommendation that the applications for franchises be denied, and states the reasons for that recommendation. The report was not submitted at the last meeting of the Council for the reason that some of the members desired that every opportunity be given for a public hearing so that it could not be said afterward that the matter was rushed through the Council. When the report is presented Monday the attorneys representing the applicants and those opposed to the franchises will present their respective views. They were in attendance at the last meeting of the Council, but when informed that the report would not be made they retired.

TWO POSSIBLE VACANCIES.

Police Commission to Consider Charges Against Patrolmen.

The Board of Police Commissioners will this morning determine what shall be done with two policemen who are charged with infractions of the rule. Patrolman William Matuskewicz will be formally tried, not on regular written charges, but because the board's having taken cognizance of the published accounts of his condition and actions on duty.

In the other case it is probable that there will be no trial. The defendant is Patrolman Gorman. He is accused of having signed a writ of habeas corpus while testifying under oath in a case which he was trying to make against a saloon keeper. The members of the board have already investigated this case but only a few weeks ago they all agreed to dismiss Gorman from the force, only their inability to agree upon his successor preventing such action. It is not certain that the case will be finally decided today, but the members will decide when they will act, and whether Gorman will be given a formal trial or not.

Since the death of Detective J. G. Goodman, there has been no little scramble for his position. Several policemen have been in their uniforms and do their work in the plain attire of a detective, especially as there is a better salary attached to such a position. Another advantage is that there is no stated time at which they are expected to report for duty and while the hours of work are sometimes longer in the detective department than in the regular police force, the work is much less tiresome than that of patrolling a beat. The aspirants to the vacant position are, therefore, not men of command, and various influences have been brought to bear upon the commission to select one of their number. Were it not for the rule which forbids the appointment of persons over 35 years of age to positions on the police force, Special Officer Charles Moffatt would be almost certain to secure the place. He was until about two years ago a member of the detective force, and was considered one of the most efficient officers of that department. During the excitement incident to the discovery of gold near Dawson City he went to Alaska, and remaining away for more than two years, his position was declared vacant, and his successor appointed. He is therefore to be considered in the same category as would be an applicant for a position, and his reappearance to his former position is prevented only by the age limit. It is not probable that he will make an appointment today to fill the vacancy.

EXAMINED OUR SYSTEM.

New Orleans Sanitary Officer Pleased With Los Angeles.

Dr. Heitzman, a member of the Department of Public Health of the city of New Orleans, has been in the city several days, employing the time during his vacation in the examination of the work of the health department here. He visited several other cities on the coast and at each place he interested himself in the measures taken to protect the public health. Dr. Heitzman is at the head of the department of food inspection, a most important branch of the health service in New Orleans, and is considered an authority on questions relating to general food inspection. He was afforded a facility by Health Officer Powers to examine the food tests and inspections here and was particularly interested in the milk tests and inspections of meats. He expressed himself as delighted with the city and complimented Dr. Powers highly upon the efficiency of his department.

PROPOSED NEW CEMETERY.

Myron and Hattie Cheesbrough have filed a petition to the City Council in the City Clerk's office asking permission to open and conduct a new cemetery in Boyle Heights. They own a large tract of land at Brooklyn avenue and Lorena street, opposite the Evergreen Cemetery, and this they desire to cut up into lots for use as a burial ground.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

BIRD CAUGHT AGAIN.

THE JURY FIND HIM GUILTY OF FORGERY AS CHARGED.

Third Trial for the Same Offense Concluded, and the Verdict a Surprise Because So Long Delayed—Bird Now in Jail.

R. A. Bird is guilty of forgery as charged. This is the verdict announced by the jury at 4:17 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after debating the guilt and innocence of the prisoner since Wednesday noon. At 4:28 o'clock the verdict was announced to the court, and Judge Campbell set next Wednesday at 10 o'clock as the time for passing sentence. Bird was remanded to the custody of the Sheriff, and is now in jail. He had been out on a $2,000 bond, with Mrs. William Cline and H. C. Dillon, his attorneys, as sureties.

Mrs. Cline, it was stated, yesterday, became somewhat uneasy and sought to be relieved of her responsibility. Judge Campbell was so informed, on Wednesday, about two hours after the case had gone to the jury. The judge, however, declined to release the prisoner, feeling that Bird had been tried three times, and that he had been in jail so much that it was only fair to allow him to remain on bail until the jury should make some sort of a return.

On Wednesday the jury made a request to be given the exhibits in the case, but Judge Campbell thought they ought to have been able to arrive at a verdict without them, and they were refused. Yesterday morning the request was repeated, and the exhibits were allowed the use of the forged and genuine checks and all receipts that had been handled and discussed in trial and retrial during the trial. It has occupied the greater part of the present month. By stipulation of both Mr. Dillon and the District Attorney, they were given until 10 o'clock, and at 10:45 they were again digging away on what their verdict should be.

The jury had been out so long that everyone had begun to anticipate a disagreement, their verdict of guilty was, therefore, a great surprise. And a greater surprise to Bird, who said yesterday that he thought if he were not acquitted, the jury would "hang" and thus give him a new trial.

Bird is thus found guilty of having forged a $200 check on the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of this city, using the signature of G. J. Griffith. This was his third trial, the jury disagreeing on the first and convicting on the second. The verdict of the jury, however, was reversed by the Supreme Court on a technical irregularity in the proceedings, and a new trial ordered, which has just been concluded with the same verdict as rendered before.

MAKING A VIGOROUS FIGHT.

Dr. Guin Opposed to Going East. Hearing Continued.

The hearing on Dr. W. R. Guin's petition for a writ of habeas corpus came up before Judge Shaw in Department Two yesterday morning. Guin is the Massachusetts dentist who is wanted in the State of Maine to answer to a charge of polygamy.

After Judge Shaw had thoroughly examined the plethora of State and county documents that have accumulated in the case, W. J. Hunsaker, Esq., who is Guin's attorney, assisted by J. Boyce, Esq., for the defense, read a list of exceptions to the return to the writ made by Sheriff Nat Stewart of Santa Barbara county.

Mr. Hunsaker stated that the return was insufficient in law to show any legal grounds for the detention of Dr. Guin, and that the pretended extradition warrant, which was issued by the State of Maine, was illegal and void in that the warrant fails to show that any indictment has ever been sworn in the State of Maine against Guin, charged with the offense of bigamy or with any offense against the laws of that State, and that the warrant fails to show that Guin has ever been charged with any offense.

Mr. Hunsaker also held that it did not appear from the warrant that the papers upon which the State of Maine warrant was issued were authenticated by the Governor of the State of Maine. At this juncture Deputy District Attorney Willis Gray Willis rose to support the defendant Guin, and saw him not, whereupon there was a bit of excitement as to where he could have gone. Some of the audience had been seen in the room a few minutes previously and with his wife had gone into the clerk's room. The bailiff looked on the other side of the door, and he said he would not do so now. His peculiar client certainly an unmitigated old fraud.

THE "SCALPER'S" OPPORTUNITY.

An Order of Court That Made Railroad Attorneys Huddle.

For about four hours yesterday the ticket "scalpers" had opportunity to resume activities, on account of an order made by Judge Shaw dissolving the preliminary restraining order granted the Southern California and Southern Pacific railroad companies against A. B. Greenwald and others, ticket brokers.

After the hearing for a permanent injunction asked for by the railroads, the injunction was granted upon the filing on a $2,000 bond. For some reason the order was not fully comprehended by the railroad attorneys, who were evidently thinking that the $2,000 bond filed for the restraining order was sufficient. After ample time had elapsed for the railroad people to file their $2,000 bond and they had failed to do so, Judge Shaw yesterday afternoon entered an order accordingly, and the restraining order was vacated. About 5 o'clock, however, the corporation lawyers had filed their bond, and given the injunction they thought they were enjoying all the time.

What the ticket "scalpers" did yesterday afternoon, while they were once again at liberty, is not known. They had a four hours' chance to dispose of all their stock on hand, and also to load on anew.

BRIEFS.

Miscellaneous Legal and Other Items.

LOOKING FOR BAIL. "Doc" Crandall, for whom the Supreme Court recently ordered a new trial in the charge of killing a Santa Monica man by the name of Bowman, is looking for bail, which was fixed by the Superior Court yesterday at $4,000.

A CHEAP "PULL." Dr. R. F. Clark was in Justice James' court yesterday forenoon suing Mrs. Amelia Ingersoll, a school teacher, for $10. Dr. Clark claims that this amount is due him by agreement with Mrs. Ingersoll, for the efforts he expended toward getting her a school. Mrs. Ingersoll says that, notwithstanding the doctor's efforts in her behalf, she failed to get the school,

Parisian Cloak and Suit Co.—139—

W. R. Guin Opposed to Going East. Hearing Continued.

He was half asleep at the time, and spoiled in a moment his last chance of escape from the penitentiary for a number of years.

It was visiting day at the County Jail yesterday, and Deputy Sheriff Quinn was acting as guide to a party, one of whom was a young girl with an overwhelming desire to see the old freak burglar. He was asleep on a bunk in his cell, and Quinn, passing by, looked through the bars to make sure his eyes—only half awake.

"How do you, old man? How do you feel?" the officer asked. "I feel kind of on the average," were the old fellow's first words after the halcyon.

"What's the matter—sick?" said Quinn. "Kind of got a slight headache," drawled the burglar, rubbing his eyes. Gardiner suddenly realized what he had done, and a look of comical chagrin and sheepishness came over his face.

He looked through the bars to make sure that he had been awakened by an officer, and then began a hackneyed repetition of all the antics and gesticulations that he has gone through with in acting out the singular role that he has assigned to himself.

Charles E. Lewers, who defended Gardiner the other day, had intended to move for a new trial when the freak looked for sentence on Monday, but he says he will not do so now. His peculiar client certainly an unmitigated old fraud.

ORCHARD, FARM

Crops and Markets.

THE weather has been seasonal during the past week, with morning fogs in the coast section. Crops are reported to be doing well. The weather has been beneficial to beans. Threshing continues and the yield is better than was expected. Apricot drying is about over, and peaches are ripening fast. The drying of this fruit will soon commence.

In the local produce market eggs and butter are steady. Fresh fruits are in fair demand at good prices. Potatoes are weak at $1.25 to $1.50 for choice.

Jamaica Fruit.

THE proposed reciprocity treaty with Jamaica continues to attract much attention among fruit-growers in this section. The Fruit World, in the course of an article on the subject, shows that to reduce the tariff on the Jamaica oranges by the proposed reciprocity treaty will be an injudicious move from any standpoint from which it may be viewed. The Jamaica oranges come to market in the fall of the year and continue along through January and February. The greatest competition from them will be focused against the orange crop of Central and Northern California, known as the Porterville and Oroville districts, as well as against the holiday market for Southern California oranges. The Fruit World says:

"Behind the proposed reduction of import duty on Jamaica oranges is the great United Fruit Company. The twenty-million dollar banana trust. Already are bananas coming into the United States market free of all duty, whatever, to the extent of twenty million bunches a year. This is enough in itself and has long been protested against by leading fruit men of the country.

"California is a doubtful State politically. The present administration should violate the compact entered into with our growers of citrus fruit by the 'cent-a-pound clause' in the Dingley Bill. It would be the bounden duty of everyone identified with the citrus-fruit industry of this Coast to place the blame where the blame belongs.

"The main force behind the proposed reduction in the citrus tariff is the twenty-million-dollar banana trust. It is possible that such an influence can secure the violation of a compact entered into by the administration with its supporters in this important State?

"If the national administration is in need of increased revenues at the custom house, let it not lower the duties on citrus fruit to increase importations and aggravate the economic detriment of the expanding citrus industry. Rather let them place a tax of 5 or 10 cents a bunch on bananas which come into American ports free of all duty, whatever, to the extent of twenty or thirty million bunches annually.

"Commercial bodies at Fresno, Oroville, Porterville, Sacramento and San Francisco are as vitally interested in this question as Los Angeles."

A Miner's Inch.

RIALTO correspondent sends The Times the following inquiry regarding the measurement of water:

"As I understand it, a miner's inch of water is the amount that will flow through an aperture one inch square under a four-inch pressure. Now, suppose the aperture is increased to five inches square, you might say that five inches square would flow through four inches square under same under four-inch pressure; or 5x10 inch aperture, would it be five inches, and so on?"

In reply to this inquiry, T. S. Van Dyke, who is one of the leading authorities on irrigation in California, furnishes The Times with the following explanation:

A miner's inch is partly an imaginary quantity, varying continually with the nature of the water flowing through which the water flows. Flowing water is falling water. Its velocity depends like that of any other body on the law of falling bodies. It is not a constant, but an inch square meeting no resistance would, at four inches from the point of starting, have a velocity of about four feet and six tenths of a foot per second. But in going through a hole the edges make such resistance that the column of water is twisted and retarded, so that the velocity at the center of the column of water will pass through in the time that the whole would have passed by the law of falling bodies if there were no resistance. The miner's inch is, therefore, a theoretical measurement deduced from the law of falling bodies which would be made if there were no resistance. But this introduces the uncertainty. Different edges and different thickness of the boards or plates through which the water is made, with different heads and different distances of the head from the center, with the careless mode of making the hole, will make it vary from 55 to 70 per cent. The inch is, therefore, not the best measurement, but is the most convenient for small quantities. It is generally computed on a percentage, or co-efficient, of 62 per cent. This makes just about one-fifth of a cubic foot per second which is the unit of measurement in this country. It makes 1728 cubic feet, or exactly a twelve-foot cube in twenty-four hours. In practice the same co-efficient is used without regard to the size of the hole or the distance of the water level above its center. It must, however, become a kind of standard and subject to another law. For a five-inch square hole with the head four inches above the center the co-efficient will be about the same. Yet, in trial, there might be 5 or even 10 per cent. difference. It is impossible to calculate it exactly, no matter what the nature of the hole or size of the head. But for practical purposes of irrigation and according to the usual mode of measuring on ditches, an opening five inches square with the head four inches above the center, will discharge twenty-five miner's inches. But the common practice would be to have the hole two inches high and twelve and one-half long for that amount. The difference might be several per cent., but as it cannot be ascertained without trial in each case, it is not worth considering, and rarely is considered.

Is the Olive Profitable Here?

ON SEVERAL occasions, during the past few months, The Times has published communications and re-produced articles from other publications regarding the olive-growing industry in Southern California, concerning which there has been much dissatisfaction expressed by growers of late. So much is this the case that some olive-growers in this section have been digging up their trees, while others have ceased to care for them. The object of The Times in publishing these articles was, of course, not to discourage the olive-growing industry in Southern California, of which this journal has during the past dozen years been an earnest and persistent advocate. The object of The Times has been to ascertain the truth in regard to this important question. If there are serious obstacles in the way of successful and profitable olive culture in Southern California, then the public should know it, also whether these obstacles may be overcome, and how. The Times has invited those who can throw any further light on the question to send in their experience especially when it is of an encouraging nature, but so far little of this kind has come to hand.

Among other articles on this subject, recently published in The Times was a communication from C. A. Loud, an olive-grower of Pomona, to the California Cultivator, a well edited and reliable monthly journal published in this city. In the communication, Mr. Loud took a pessimistic view of the olive industry in this section and asked whether any one here has raised olives at a less cost than $2 a gallon.

In the Rural Californian for July are two and a half pages of matter under the head: "Is the Olive Industry a Failure?" which starts off as follows: "Born partly of selfishness, partly of a superficial understanding of the subject and partly of the disappointment and chagrin which have been the logical consequences of ill-directed efforts, there is manifest a disposition to decry the olive industry in Southern California. Even the Southern Californian press has lent itself to the dissemination of statements to the effect that olive culture in this part of the State is an utter failure and the advocacy of it is little better than the encouragement of fraud.

In a recent issue of a local horticultural publication there appeared a communication from C. A. Loud of Pomona, relating to olive-growing. In this communication Mr. Loud apparently files a blanket indictment against the olive industry of the entire southern part of the State. The article, as published, is a wall of disappointment and disgust, and to the mind of a reader not fortified with knowledge to the contrary, the culture of the olive hereabouts would be damned unreservedly. Unfortunately, but as is usual with such communications, Mr. Loud's contribution found reproduction in a local daily paper of large circulation and therein probably lies the most aggravating circumstance of the matter. If the communication had remained immured in the columns of the periodical originally printing it, little, indeed, would have been its recognition. But falsehoods and misstatements never yet lacked for circulation, so this contribution to the literature of the olive found a place of publicity."

The Rural Californian then goes on to publish what purports to be interviews with a number of olive men at Pomona and elsewhere, who are made to express sanguine views in regard to the industry. Among others, Mr. Loud is interviewed, and is made to say that his article had been distorted in the paper. "The Cultivator" and to say further that the olive industry in Southern California is all right, when properly cared for. The article winds up with a communication from "Hon." I. W. Lord, whose name may or may not carry weight with those who are seeking for the truth in regard to this or any other industry. In this communication the following passage occurs:

"Now, when I say that the olive belt is still more confined, you might say 'a penit-utopia.' While there are many small tracts in Southern California, and great tracts of many other lands, which are well adapted to the olive, there is but one extensive body of land which fills the requirements. It is bounded on the east by Little Creek, on the west by the Rialto settlement on the west by Ontario, on the north well up toward the Cucamonga range of mountains, and reaches on the south well toward the Santa Ana River. When you get too close to the river an occasional fog is a drawback, and if too near the mountains on the north, you strike the orange belt, which is more valuable for that culture (a fact which we were long since told by that father of water measurement and wet nurse of orange culture, and great uncle of many other of our best interests, L. M. Holt), and the land itself is not so good for olives, as the lighter lands in the great valley below. In spite of thorough cultivation, the olive, to do well and mature good berries there, must be irrigated, while no irrigation is required in the other olive lands."

The stretch of country referred to above comprises an area one-fifth the size of the State of Rhode Island, say about two hundred square miles, thirty square miles of which is orange land, which has water, or for which water can no doubt be developed. This leaves 170 square miles, which is destined to be the olive belt of the future, and the Highland of olive culture."

Possibly, the reason for this elaborate puff of a particular section as a choice olive-growing region may be found in a half-page advertisement in the same issue of the Rural Californian, of an olive-growing colony within the section referred to by Mr. Loud.

Coming to the question of Mr. Loud's opinion of the olive industry, as stated by him in the California Cultivator, and reproduced in The Times, the Times has received the following communication from Mr. Loud, which thoroughly confirms his views as previously stated, and shows the absolute worthlessness of the statements made in the Rural Californian:

"POMONA, July 15, 1899.—[Editor Times:] A few days ago three gentlemen and myself, representing the olive industry, met at the residence of Mr. H. J. H. and discussed themselves as parties interested in the olive industry (?) or olive culture (?) in Southern California. They said they had been referred to me by the Rev. Mr. Loop, who is a personal friend of mine. They were with me, sitting on the front seat with the driver was a large, intelligent-faced man, under a broad sombrero, whom I dimly remembered to have seen years ago at our Farmers' Institute, where he made excellent speeches and advertised the Rural Californian. I asked if this was not Mr. Heintz, and on being discovered he introduced the gentleman with him as 'Mr. Johnson,' and 'Mr. Hecky' of Chicago, parties interested in the aforesaid olive industry. 'My opinion of this industry is such that when an intelligent man mentions it that way he makes me laugh, but since had an olive orchard to sell and could not make a cent of it, I have been interested in this sort of industry in any other way. I laughed, but immediately dried up and submitted to a long and tedious lecture, and I said: 'No, it has been represented by the propagators as a tree that can be planted on worthless lands, in dry native homesteads, and requires irrigation, and very indifferent care, and my observation has been that in the main these conditions have been complied with very rigidly. The industry seems to resemble a game that I am told is sometimes played in Chicago, called poker; if you do not ante there is no reasonable chance of taking something up. In fact, it is getting to be that all industries in this, as well as all other countries, where profits are taken from the ground, have a little distinguishing feature. When the olive is treated like the orange, has for its foundation the cream of our soil, and all the fertilizer and water we are able to buy, and we are in a way; when we sit up nights to fight the scale and keep away the birds and all possible enemies; when we can regulate our winters and do so, with summer days in March and winter days in April; when we learn to know the days should be cloudy and the nights without moonlight, when we can bring to California the conditions of the parent tree in Spain and add these other inducements we may grow olives in quantities enough to eat and in commercial quantities.

"I was asked if I knew of a grove cared for in this way in this valley, and I said that I did. At the lower end of the avenue, in the town of ten-acre orchard of Mission olives, ten years old. It is attended to by Mr. Rose, whose reputation is the best, as a farmer, of any man I know. These trees get good irrigation and two cultivations per month. If they need additional or other fertilizer, or any additional care which is judged to improve their usefulness, they get it, because the man who owns the orchard is the secretary to Gen. Alger, and has plenty of money to spend. He is with, and is anxious to see his faith in the olive justified. There has never been a scale nearer these trees than North Ontario, where they are. Fruits? Yes. Two years ago there were in the neighborhood of two barrels of fruit, but so evenly distributed over the orchard that Mr. Rose had to be content of gathering them would be more than $2 per gallon, did not pick them."

"How about Cucamonga?" was asked. I said that the Cucamonga was where the olive was proposed to be planted was the last place in the world to think of planting anything. Two or three years ago, however, it has been planted in Cucamonga, and the Chicago seeking investment in this line, and somebody, probably to have some fun with him, or to give me some, sent him to me. POLICE COURT NOTES.
Justice Meted to Drunks and Other Petty Offenders.
A ticket to Santa Monica saved Arthur Wilson from a term of three days' imprisonment in the City Jail yesterday. Wilson is a fisherman from Ballona Harbor, an isolated spot where life is not all beer and skittles. Beer, especially, is a scarce commodity at La Ballona, consequently the average fisherman is as dry as a fish when he comes to Los Angeles. Arthur Wilson's thirst was great when he arrived here from Ballona, and he proceeded at once to quench it. After unloading his sundry catch of the amber beverage he went to sleep in a doorway where Officer Richardson found him and sent him to the city cooler. Wilson pleaded guilty to the charge of being intoxicated in the Police Court yesterday afternoon, but produced his return ticket to Santa Monica and begged to be allowed to return to the seaside, promising to do so at once. The court gave him a three days' fender and bade him get back to his fishing at Ballona without delay.

Thomas O'Neill did not have a ticket to Santa Monica or elsewhere, so the court required him to pay a fine of $3 for looking upon the amber fluid when it was foaming in the glass. Albert Green was given his choice between $3 or three days for indulging in the flowing bowl.

Frank Lynwood, who was arrested for disturbing the peace of J. H. Carter at the Manhattan Club, pleaded not guilty and the court after hearing the testimony in the case, dismissed the complaint.

The complaint against R. J. Spear for obtaining money under false pretenses was dismissed on motion of the District Attorney, as Spear had settled with the complaining witness and paid the costs of prosecution. Spear had been accused of passing a bogus check on Los Escalier.

R. E. Hathaway was arraigned on the charge of making threats to kill Mrs. Rose E. Norris, a dressmaker who lives at No. 608 1/2 South Spring street. Hathaway was in trouble in Riverside some months ago. This trouble was subsequently renewed in this city when he was arrested and imprisoned in the City Jail for sixty days for battery. Lately Hathaway has been driving a team for men named Morley, as Spear had settled with the complaining witness and paid the costs of prosecution. Spear had been accused of passing a bogus check on Los Escalier.

HOUSE AND LOT.
TWO MORE GOOD SALES ON BROADWAY.
A Recent Legal Decision Affecting the Vrooman Act—What Some Lawyers Say.

Good Demand for Real Estate in Outside Sections of Southern California—Building at Santa Ana.

Increased Activity on Boyle Heights. Ground Rents in Philadelphia. Patio Dwellings—Building Notes.

The local real estate market has been comparatively quiet during the past week. No noteworthy improvement is expected until after the summer season is over.

BROADWAY.
Two more good sales have been made on South Broadway. Judge J. Bonner of New Orleans bought of Cecil H. Fuller of Suffolk, Ct., forty feet on the east side of Broadway, between Third and Fourth streets, for $25,000. The property at present is leased to Niles Pease, and as soon as the lease is out Judge Bonner will remove the light improvements now on the lot and erect a three-story and basement block thereon. The sale was made by Clark & Bryan.

The same firm has also sold for Judge Bonner to George Gephard a twenty-five-foot lot on the east side of Broadway, between Fourth and Fifth, for $20,000.

THE VROOMAN ACT.
A decision was recently rendered in this city by Judge Shaw in the Main-street case, in which he affirmed the constitutionality of the Vrooman Act. Local attorneys declare, however, that Judge Shaw's decision will not hold good, and one attorney is preparing to take a couple of local cases to the United States Supreme Court for a decision. Meantime several thousand dollars worth of local street bonds have been compromised on a basis of 40 to 50 per cent. of their value.

BOYLE HEIGHTS.
Since the new car line went into operation there has been an increasing demand for property on Boyle Heights. The Sunday concerns established by the Tractor Railway Company in Hollenbeck Park have brought many people to that part of the city who had never visited it before. A number of sales of lots have been made during the past few months and the present year promises to see many more residences going up in that attractive part of the city which now enjoys first-class transportation facilities and is within only a few minutes' ride of Spring street.

OUTSIDE PROPERTY.
There is a good demand for property in the outside sections of Southern California just now, especially in Riverside and Santa Ana, where a number of good sales have been made lately. The Santa Ana Register recently published a list of buildings constructed and contracted for since January 1, which shows a total value of $67,000. At Riverside a number of orange groves have changed hands recently at good prices.

GROUND RENTS IN PHILADELPHIA.

Replying to an inquiry regarding Philadelphia ground rents, the United States Investor says: "Many years ago there was what was known as the irredeemable ground rents. The law was modified April 22, 1860, since which time the maker of the ground rent has been permitted to redeem it at any time, although the holder cannot exact redemption like a mortgage. The regular interest is 6 per cent., although there are some instances where they are given at 5 per cent. The old irredeemable ground rent was made at 6 per cent. Today, to obtain the latter, you would have to pay $5 to $10 for a bond. Almost any irredeemable ground rent is now investment, as property values have greatly increased of late years. One reason why the ground rent is more valuable than a mortgage is that it does not depreciate. In selecting the ground rent, you would want to see that the margin of value should be, at least, one-third the margin between the property and ground rent. Some also have to be more careful of a ground rent, as its amount can be reduced as a mortgage can. A ground rent stands ahead of a mortgage."

PATIO DWELLINGS.
A writer in the Alhambra Advocate recently had the following in regard to patio dwellings, which are popular in this section, and are well adapted to the climate of Southern California: "What are they? Many have been the inquiries from tourists and it is a patio dwelling. For the benefit of everyone we say that they are dwellings usually one story with an interior courtyard. In the center of the mission churches they were built of adobe, plastered over inside and out, with an open inside court with no veranda, but filled with flowers and plants. The late houses erected are now planned on the European order, with beautiful wide verandas all around this inside courtyard and all the rooms opening into this courtyard. The veranda is a colonnade around the court of any style. Some are in the Moorish, some in the classic, with large columns adding so much to the beauty, dignity and character, and here will be found in this court the great sitting and family room of the house. For personal comfort where you can have your lounges, sofas, tables, chairs, curtains, etc., in the veranda part, while in the center is a beautiful basin of water with jets and fountains, surrounded by flowers and plants of all kinds, which grow most luxuriantly, and with so little care. For a retreat for a quiet, restful, enjoyable part of the house, this court, open to the sunshine or shade, rain or not as you please, you have a resting place such as you cannot obtain from any veranda, or any other room in the house."

"You have your parlor, dining-room, entry hall, bedrooms all on one floor, and open to the court. In this open court, free from drafts, with a delightful temperature, is the place above every other room in the house for any kind of enjoyment, entertainment, musicales, etc.; a family could desire. In the court in the house here described, members of the family were just having a snap shot taken amid the beautiful flowers, the large columns showing but part of their beauty. "Now, what is the cost for all this? Why, you can build one of these dwellings, all frame, for $2000. One in cement finish outside for $3000 to $4000. One in brick or stone for $5000. They are one-story, a good high story, the superstructure resting on a concrete foundation, large cellar, complete ventilation under the whole dwellings, double floors, waterproof in between, ample space between ceiling and roof, roof flat, used as a garden if desired, or fitted with pagodas, outlooks, etc. Every room has a large ceiling and ventilator, so that in the hottest days the air is constantly changing. "Now, we hope our friends who have any idea of building will look into the merits and practical working of this style of dwelling, which is the only style suitable for this climate, for right here in Alhambra are two dwellings: one on a large scale, and one on a small scale, which is open for inspection any afternoon. It is the home of our fellow-townsmen, L. B. Vaik, who built this home, to test the qualities in this climate, and every one interested in learning more about them is invited to call and see them. L. B. Vaik, architect, here in Alhambra, or the Stimson Block, Los Angeles. We intend to have more to say about these houses later.

BUILDING.
Among the contracts reported by the Builder and Contractor as having been let are the following:
A one-story frame and plaster residence containing seven rooms exclusive of bathrooms, pantries, closets, etc., for Mrs. Ella Gilles Ruddy of this city, to be built on the north side of Wilshire boulevard, between Ramport and Benton streets.

A two-story eight-room frame residence for Rev. R. F. Byrne, to be built on the northeast corner of Fourth and Cummings streets.

F. E. Browne, two-story frame residence, west side of Figueroa near Jefferson street, $3000.

William Galt, two-story frame residence, southeast corner Witmer and Ingraham streets, $3000.

F. C. Spreng, one and a half story frame dwelling south side West tenth street, between Oak and Cherry streets, $2150.

Paul Haupt, two-story frame residence, No. 400 West Thirty-third street, $2000.

Mrs. Annie Buchanan, two-story frame eight-room residence, west side of Union avenue, between Ninth and Tenth, $2600.

THE LONE STAR STATE.
INCREASED INTEREST IN MINING AND RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

Another Large Smelter for El Paso. Trouble in Prospect for Some Railroad Companies—Interest in Reorganizing Rough Riders.

EL PASO (Tex.) July 25.—[Regular Correspondence.] It is expected that another large smelter will be in operation in El Paso within the next few months. George M. Jacobs of New York, president of the Federal Smelter Company, and Charles C. Gibson of New York, attorney for the company, are here arranging for the erection of the new plant. Some difficulty has been experienced in securing perfect title to the site selected, but it is thought that this objection has been obviated, and that work may begin on the new smelter at an early date. One hundred acres of land have been secured for this purpose. The hoped-for operation can be commenced by September 1. The company is said to be composed of five men who are believed to be able to put $5,000,000 into the enterprise. The company owns mines in Arizona and New Mexico, and expects to supply from the same the greater part of the ores to be used at the smelter, although it is understood that custom ore will be accepted. It is said that the Federal company now has 3000 tons of ore on its dumps at one of its mines in Arizona.

There seems to be a great demand for smelting facilities in the vicinity of El Paso. The great firm of Guggenheim & Co., which have extensive mining operations in Mexico, have closed contracts for the delivery of them of 100,000 tons of ore per month at points along the Mexican Central Railroad.

The El Paso smelter is doing an immense business. Its business for the first half of July exceeded the first half of June by more than 12 per cent. Arizona furnishes the greatest amount of ore for this plant, with New Mexico second. It is said that about 300 tons of ore per week is now received from the Pinal del Rey district, Sonora. The El Paso smelter recently received a thirty-ton shipment of gold and silver ore from the Hillsboro district of New Mexico, valued at $1500 per ton.

Interest in railway affairs in Texas is manifested at this time in view of the reported consolidation of various systems, some of which penetrate the heart of the state. The Gould interests, as represented in the Texas Pacific and Missouri Pacific, are merged in a trust, it is believed, that will be a result of the consolidation. The result, insofar as Texas has jurisdiction of these roads, under the new anti-trust law, the merging of these properties in a trust could doubtless be interdicted. The railway commission of this State has been collecting evidence on the subject, and it may happen that as a result of attempt to join with a railway trust, some of the companies will be placed in the hands of receivers, at the instance of the State government.

So many people have been killed in Texas that an effort is being made to prevent the carrying of concealed weapons. The State Tax Commission has under consideration a bill to impose a license on each dealer in the arms of such a nature that the same may be concealed about the person. The bill will be submitted at the special session of the State Legislature, which will convene November 9. There is a great deal of interest in fruit and vegetables in the city, owing to the recent drought, and the most of the FOOD AND WEATHER.

Temperature Increased or Reduced by Food.
The old army ration for the tropics has been very sharply criticized for the reason that it consists of articles of food that any person even slightly acquainted with the elements of food knows is not adapted to the needs of the human system in hot weather. Nature shows forth in the selection of food by inhabitants of various countries. For instance, the Esquimaux in a cold climate select heavy, carbonaceous foods, tallow, bacon and such; while the Hindoo and inhabitants of hot countries turn to the cereal for sustenance. We should follow this hint of nature, and particularly in hot weather should avoid much butter, meat or any of that class of food. Perhaps a hot meal once a day is not amiss, even in hot weather, but the breakfast and lunch should be made of fruit, or two or three of entire wheat bread and some Grape-Nuts and cream. Grape-Nuts are mentioned, because they furnish the ideal cereal food in a most palatable and delicious form, in addition to which they are ready cooked, and require no attention whatever from the cook. A person can pass through weather that may be intensely hot, in a comfortable manner, if the food be properly selected, and the above suggestions can be put into practice with most excellent results.

commodities of this kind enjoyed here are received from California. Strange to say, meats and fruits from Kansas City for consumption here, and are not of the most inviting quality. Much interest is manifested in the project of reorganizing the Rough Riders for service in the Philippines. The visit of Col. Alexander Brodie to New York is believed to mean that he will recruit new recruits for the Philippines. There would be no difficulty in organizing a number of companies of Rough Riders in Texas.

Under the recent extradition treaty between the United States and Mexico extradition agents are to be appointed in certain States to supervise matters pertaining to extradition between States of the United States or of the republic of Mexico. Gov. Sayres has appointed Thomas Carson of Brownsville extradition agent for the State of Texas.

Port Worth is to have a union passenger station. A company has been organized for this purpose, with a capital of $50,000, and has secured a charter. The object of the company is to erect and operate a union station, tracks and appurtenances in Port Worth.

Under a ruling from the Attorney-General's office, lawyers in this State must each pay an occupation tax, instead of paying the same as a firm. Galveston has procured a large bark for quarantine purposes. There is much sickness around Brownsville, at the mouth of the Rio Grande.

Cotton worms are doing much damage in Texas. Shipments of cattle from points in Southwest Texas to northern points have been discontinued on account of rains. Owing to robberies in West Texas the Pacific Express Company has limited the amount of money that can be transmitted by the company.

John B. Wood Camp, of Confederate Veterans, will erect a fine monument to the entrance to the grounds of the State Capitol at Austin.

The first bale of Texas cotton which was sent to New Orleans for sale at auction for the benefit of the sufferers of this State, brought $126.41, of which amount $100 represented the premium, the balance the normal value.

A company with a capital of $50,000 has opened the salt works at Grand Saline.

The Panhandle and Gulf Railway, with a capital stock of $100,000, has secured a charter, and proposes to erect a road from Sweetwater to San Angelo.

The Orchard-avenue Baptist Church is not a new organization, which impression seems to have been conveyed by the filing of articles of incorporation on Wednesday. The membership of the congregation, which formerly bore the name of the American Baptist Church, held a meeting a week ago and decided to incorporate under a new name, the one first mentioned.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association will move from their present location in the Homer Laughlin building the first of this month to the rooms previously occupied by the organization in the Wilcox Block. The reason assigned for the change is that the present quarters are too small, and that the old rooms were better suited to the needs of the association.

A man who is apparently about 33 years old, about five feet seven inches in height, smooth-faced and wearing a soft black hat and a brown suit, rather seedy in appearance, who has recently been going from house to house in the residence district, is said to be a sneak thief, and the public is warned to be on its guard against him. He is fairly well educated and makes a good talk, and it is said that he will resort to any kind of a subterfuge in order to get into a house.

CAUGHT BY THE UNDERTOW.
Actress Jane Holly's Narrow Escape from Drowning.

The New York Dramatic Mirror of July 22 contains the following account of the narrow escape of Jane Holly (Mrs. Clara Bowring) from drowning: "While bathing in Lake Erie at Bennett Homestead on July 8, Jane Holly narrowly escaped drowning. She was swimming out to a boat at anchor when the undertow seized her and dragged her under water. Robert Brunton and Orr S. Cash swimming with her, at once went to her assistance. The heavy breakers made it almost impossible to make headway, and for a time it looked as though the three would be swept out to death. After a hard struggle, however, they managed to reach shore, whereupon Miss Holly, who until then displayed great pluck, promptly fainted. Mr. Cash and Mr. Brunton, though much exhausted, were obliged to receive the congratulations of a number of persons who had witnessed the adventure.

Mrs. Bowring is well known in Los Angeles, which was her home prior to the beginning of her stage career. Under the name of Jane Holly, she is the accomplished daughter of Capt. H. L. Flash of the Los Angeles Lighting Company.

AM THERE, CHARLIE!
Garvanza Receives an Earnest of the Boon of Annexation.

Although Garvanza has now enjoyed the privilege of being part of the municipality for more than one month, it was not until yesterday that it became sensibly aware of the boon of police protection. Officer John Lennon, he of the rubicund countenance, made an incursion into the wilds of Garvanza yesterday, seeking whom he might devour. His search for a victim was rewarded by the finding of an industrious Celestial, who was washing dirty linen for white people without a city license to conduct a laundry. Ah Charlie, the luckless heathen whom Officer Lennon separated from his washbasin and sent on a journey to the City Jail, six miles distant, pleaded ignorance of the changed conditions, claiming that laundry business since Garvanza has become a city, he was required to present himself before Police Judge Morgan just the same.

Ah Charlie put up bail for his appearance in court for trial today.

YAQUI OUTRAGES.

Nuns, Society Girls and Priests Murdered by the Indians.

Pelle Seldner of the State of Sonora, who, with relatives and Gen. Ybarra, is staying at the Nadean Hotel, received a letter yesterday giving further information about the Yaqui uprising in Sonora. In addition to the murder of Charles F. Hale of this city, reported several days ago, Seldner has information to the effect that the Indians outraged two nuns and two society girls from Cocorit, afterward killing them. The body of Hale has not yet been recovered.

Col. Fernado, who pacified the Indians in 1897, with 200 soldiers, and a half battalion under Gen. L. Torres and Al. Rivera, are fighting the rebels. Chief Tetablate (since reported killed) was assisting the government forces at the time the letter was written. A missionary, Father Bertran, an unknown priest, are also reported killed. They, with the murdered women, were trying to pacify the Indians. The priests were killed with knives and their bodies terribly mutilated.

Seldner says the Indians are well treated by the Mexican government, but they want to be independent of government restraint. Most of their fighting is done from ambush.

Scandinavian Picnic.
Eastlake Park was crowded yesterday with a large crowd of merry-makers, most of whom could trace their lineage back to a home in the Scandinavian Peninsula. There were many speeches brim full of recollection of the old country and abounding in patriotism for the new. Plenty of refreshments were served beneath the trees, and music discoursed, and when these had been disposed of the elders sat upon the greensward thinking of days spent across the continent and the sea and watching the younger generation of Americans playing upon the grass and walks of the park.

Every one seemed to be having a good time, and late in the afternoon the crowd dispersed to their homes, well satisfied with their outing.

Home From the Klondike.
William B. Judson returned to his home in Los Angeles yesterday, after an absence of a year and a half in the gold, or ice, fields of Alaska. Judson went into the Klondike country over the dead Stikien trail and returned by way of St. Michaels. He did not make a fortune, but came out with more money than he took along, and his health has not been affected.

Marriage Licenses.
Following were the marriage licenses issued yesterday from the office of the County Clerk:

George K. Home, aged 20, a native of Illinois, and Alice M. Hanley, aged 19, a native of California; both residents of Los Angeles. The father, J. R. Home, gives consent to his son's marriage.

Charles F. Luken, aged 30, a native of California, and Bessie Bedford, aged 27, a native of California; both residents of Los Angeles.

Midsummer Sale Inducements.

This is the last week before inventory. We are trying to sell all the goods possible. We are reducing prices to tempting cheapness. We urge you to buy. We offer every price inducement possible. If you neglect these opportunities you are doing yourself an injustice.

Wash Stuffs
Our stock of summery wash stuffs is the embodiment of completeness, elegance and cheapness; not a desirable kind but is here in plenty, and many of the styles are shown here only; for example, here are some 1500 yards of fancy, linen-finished dress gingham in checks and plaids of light, cool colorings that sell in most places at 10c a yard; our price is 7c

One case of 1 new tussie with stripes of black, new blue, pink, navy, red and lavender on white grounds; the usual 12 1/2c grade; priced at 8 1/2c

One case of white apron nainsook in assorted size checks; 27 inches wide; a good, firmly woven stuff that you have never before seen at 3c

Kid Gloves
Reduced
This price cutting is apparently without reason; the gloves are the finest and best, but some of the shades or sizes are absent, you'll find every shade and every size among the combined lines, but not every shade in every size; reductions are as follows:

$1.25 dress kid gloves, 70c
$1.50 2-clasp plaid gloves, 95c
$1.50 and $2.00 opera shades, $1.15
$1.50 genuine mocha gloves, $1.00
$2.00 French kid gloves, $1.30.

Men's Blue Serge Suits
at $8.50
Our money-back guarantee will be given with these suits, no transaction is complete here until the purchaser is satisfied. The fit will be satisfactory to the most critical eyes. These suits are made of indigo blue, herringbone serge, one of the best materials known to tailors. The coats are three button cutaway checks, the vests are single-breasted and high cut. Coats are French faced, satin piped and lined with the best Italian cloth. Suits like these are seldom sold as low as $10.00, but during this sale the price is $8.50

Men's Shirts 28c
50c they were good values; midsummer sale price is 28c

Men's Straw Hats 50c
Men's white braid straw hats trimmed with fancy silk bands, and good leather sweat bands; we sold these hats earlier in the season at $1.00; priced now at 50c

Shirt Waists
Shirt waists that are as good, if not better, than any ever sold by this or any house in the regular way for 50c. This season's prettiest percales in both light and dark shades; made with pointed yoke backs, detached standing collars and bias fronts, in every way desirable waists, they fit perfectly; on sale at 39c

Wash Cotton torchon laces
at an unusual price, 42 different patterns from 1-2 to 2 1-2 inches wide, many of them are sold everywhere at 7 1-2c a yard, on sale at 3 1/2c

Women's Real Maco yarn stockings for women, tan color, both plain and ribbed, made with double soles and toes and high spliced heels; stockings that sell elsewhere at 25c a pair, our price is 15c

Women's Knit Vests
Swiss ribbed vests, made with low neck and no sleeves, neatly finished with tape, they come in ecru and white, a quality seldom seen at 12 1/2c

Washable Dress Skirts
Our cloack and suit buyer is in New York now. He has sent us plenty of chambray skirts, and writes that they are the very latest styles among wash skirts. We quote some of them by way of example:

Corded chambray skirts that are perfectly made and trimmed; blue, tan and red grounds with cords of white, trimmed with cord, bottom of skirt with three rows of bias bands of same material. Good $2.50 skirt $1.50

Heavy mottored chambray skirts, trimmed with exquisite pattern of torchon insertion and soutache braid, beautiful bow-knot pattern in front; by far the handsomest skirt ever shown for the price. $2.98

Rough Straw Sailors, 50c
New lot just received; our buyer sent us 10 cases with information that they were the biggest bargain he ever bought; made by Melton, 194 Regent street, London, to sell at $1.00; rough braid with silk bands; on sale while they last 50c
